Defense Orders No Slashes In Missile Research

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department has ordered the military services to make no cuts in the $1,700,000,000 which Congress voted for basic research in the current fiscal year.

Secretary of Defense Neil H. McElroy, who took office Oct. 10, yesterday announced modification of an Aug. 17 economy memorandum issued by his predecessor Charles E. Wilson.

The Wilson memo had the effect of curtailing some basic research spending, although Pentagon aides said this had not been intended.

Red Moon

Scientific matters also got new White House attention today as President Eisenhower arranged to meet with government officials and Dr. Isadore I. Rabi of Columbia University, chairman of a special scientific advisory committee.

Meanwhile, Russia's Sputnik—a major factor in the quickening interest in U. S. research—silently orbited the earth at 18,000 m.p.h. The Red moon was launched Oct. 4.

The sphere's radio ceased transmissions four days ago, and there have been no U. S. sightings either of Sputnik or of its rocket section in the last few days because their orbits do not now bring them across this continent during twilight or dawn.

In the latest of a series of announced technological advances by the military, the Army disclosed some information yesterday about its new Hawk missile, which is designed to blast low flying planes out of the sky.

An announcement said the missile has a radar device that ignores stationary objects and speeds the weapon toward moving aerial targets. The Army said the Hawk can destroy invading aircraft even at treetop level.

10 Per Cent

The missile is not yet ready for combat issue and an Army statement said the Hawk "must be brought forward rapidly."

Wilson's Aug. 17 memorandum had stirred much criticism from members of Congress and others. The order told the services to cut their spending by an amount equal to 10 per cent of the $1,700,000,000 approved for basic re-

Radical Socialist Asked To Form French Gov't

PARIS (AP) — Radical Socialist Felix Gaillard, 37-year-old financial wizard and advocate of national belt-tightening, was asked today to form a government to fill the French political vacuum.

President Rene Coty called on the bespectacled young advocate of austerity after the National Assembly rejected Socialist Guy Mollet 290-227.

Gaillard, finance minister in the last government of Maurice Bourges-Maunoury, indicated he would sound out other political leaders before accepting or rejecting the mandate tonight.

If he tries and succeeds, he will be the youngest French premier of modern history.

Mollet's chances were doomed when the Conservative Independents and Peasants, with 99 Assembly votes, decided to oppose him. This retaliated for Socialist refusal earlier to support independent candidate Antoine Pinay.

Mollet's votes came principally from his own Socialists, the Radical Socialists and the Catholic Popular Republicans. They were the three major elements in the left-of-center Cabinet he proposed. The Conservatives teamed up with

Dulles Warns Of Foreign Soviet Moves

Cites Internal Troubles For Calculations

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles said today that in a period of domestic Russian upheaval the United States and the rest of the free world must be on the alert for possible foreign moves by the Soviet.

Dulles told a news conference he would not want to give the impression that war is just around the corner. He said he does not really think that is true.

But whenever a great nation has internal troubles, he said, it is historical fact that such troubles sometimes lead to external acts. Under such conditions, Dulles said, the United States is always on the alert for what the Soviet Union might do.

The present situation—revolving around the mystery of the reasons for Marshal Georgi Zhukov's dismissal as defense minister—has not required any special alert, Dulles said, because all the top people in the U.S. government are aware of the possibilities.

Dulles also made these statements on the current Soviet situation and other international issues:

1. If President Eisenhower is invited to attend the NATO Council meeting in Paris in December he will give the invitation sympathetic consideration.

New Division

2. If the Soviet government proposed Marshal Zhukov as ambassador to Washington, it would be up to Eisenhower to determine whether he was acceptable because the President always makes decisions on ambassadors. There has been some speculation that the Russians might make such a proposal. Zhukov and Eisenhower were associated in World War II.

3. Projected new division of defense duties among the United States and its allies will not involve any reduction in defense spending in this country but may mean some shifting of funds among military projects. Dulles also said the United States intends to maintain its manpower commitments in Europe and the Far East.

Ex-Cop Won't Report Cash Find To Authorities

DURHAM, N. C. (AP)—A former Durham policeman who claimed yesterday he had found more than $100,000 in cash on his property said today the amount was $162,000—and that he isn't going to take the initiative in reporting his find to authorities.

Vernon L. Maynor declared that if federal authorities want to investigate his story, they can get in touch with him. He refused to permit newsmen to see the money or to allow photographs of himself with the reported find.

Seek To Trace

The FBI and the U. S. Internal Revenue Service both expressed interest in Maynor's account.

Maynor, who now runs a telephone answering service, said that if anyone else can prove ownership, he will relinquish the cash.

The Internal Revenue Service here said it is interested in learning if tax ever has been paid on the amount. If Maynor does not

Meat Cutters In K. C. Strike

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The union representing Kansas City's retail meat cutters has struck on behalf of members who have been displaced at the front counter by serve-yourself displays.

"Since they've put our people into the back rooms to cut and wrap meat, the stores have piled up more work all the time," said C. H. Nothnagel, secretary of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workers Union. "We had to do something."

Serving Million

The result is a demand for a limit on the amount of work a butcher may be required to do. It is unprecedented in the nation's retail meat industry. Store owners refused to meet the demand and the butchers—between 800 and 1,000 of them—went on strike.

"We won't let the union tell us how much a man is going to produce," said Harold Audsley the industry's chief negotiator.

The strike is in its fifth day today. It has closed 75 to 80 per cent of the chain and independent supermarkets serving the million-plus persons in the Kansas City area.

Union grocery clerks and truck drivers of supply houses elected to honor the butchers' picket lines and are idle. Store owners reported heavy spoilage. Housewives did some panic buying over the weekend but it has now simmered down to a hunt for open stores Small markets are jammed.

Both sides agree wage scales are a secondary issue.

Nothnagel said the union asks

Egypt Hurls 'Plot' Charge Against U.S.

By WALTER LOGAN
United Press

Egypt observed the first anniversary of the Israeli invasion today by accusing the United States of plotting against Syria.

Cairo newspapers hailed the day as "Hero's Day" and reported that President Gamal Abdel Nasser would speak on the occasion.

The English language Egyptian Gazette recalled that the United States was one of the first nations to speak out against the Israeli-British-French invasion and said it was repeating their mistakes.

"Exactly one year after the Suez aggression it seems as if a similar venture is being prepared. Again there is the threat of a third world war," it said.

Other newspapers failed to recall U.S. intervention on Egypt's side and Al Shaab said "America is preparing to take some specific action in the Middle East." It warned that the Arab states would act together. The government newspaper Al Gomhouria also attacked the United States.

Contrast in Beliefs

The Egyptian press comment was in contrast to belief in the United Nations that blunt statements by the American, British and Turkish delegates had taken the crisis edge off the assembly debate on Syria.

However Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko was speaking this morning and his speech should show for sure.

Syria gave indications Monday night it thought the crisis far from over. It warned seven NATO powers that Turkey might seize the opportunity of forthcoming NATO maneuvers in southern Turkey to "commit aggressive action against Syria."

Seek Identity Of Indian Boy

SAN ANTONIO (UP)— The FBI today attempted to learn where an 8-year-old Navajo Indian boy came from and who brutally beat him.

Leonard Blaylock, FBI agent-in-charge, said he is concerned with whether little Ben Lee was kidnaped. The youth speaks only broken English and still has not recovered from a beating that broke his left arm and left bruises on his face and body.

Blaylock said the Indian boy says he is from "Farmington," presumably Farmington, N. M.

From piecing together shreds of information, the FBI has learned a woman apparently adopted him with consent of his father and grandfather

Ben Lee was left with Mrs. W. L. Barnett, a professional babysitter, by Mrs. Dorothy Waters, who police said is a known prostitute involved in narcotics cases in the past.

Flu Cases Drop In Rapides Parish

ALEXANDRIA, La. — UP — Alexandria - Rapides health unit officials reported Monday Asian flu has declined steadily during October in Rapides parish.

Dr. Kendrick Taylor, health unit director, said he based his statement on the declining number of cases in Charity hospital at Pineville.

Dr. Taylor said the cases have dropped from 475 to 250.

Goes To Death In Stolen Plane

HOQUIAM, Wash. (UP) — An unemployed Air Force veteran stole a light plane Monday and apparently plunged 11,000 feet to his death in the Pacific ocean after buzzing buildings in downtown Seattle.

"Well, this is it. Am almost down to the water. So long," radioed a man who identified himself in a disjointed radio message as J. A. Greenawalt, 24, a Civil Aeronautics Administration trainee at Seattle who resigned in September.

Military radar stations near here fixed his position at 100 miles offshore at the time of the message.

Never Did

Greenawalt admitted in another message that he had stolen the blue and white Stinson from Boeing Field at Seattle.

Then began a series of wild buzzings that had scores of calls pouring into the CAA offices in Seattle.

Bob Taylor, operator of a cleaning shop in the Hungerford hotel obtained the number of the plane.

"He buzzed the hotel and cleared a flag pole on the roof by about 20 feet. I thought he was going to hit it," said Taylor.

Greenawalt also buzzed the 42-story . C. Smith Tower building in downtown Seattle, flew below the top of a large apartment building and skimmed over the top of the Seattle Post - Intelligencer building.

"Tell Marilyn I never did love her," one radio message said. "I've been depressed and I'm going into the water now."

Spurned Him

The King county (Seattle) sheriff's office said Greenawalt referred to Marilyn Anderson, 21, Seattle. A deputy reported Greenawalt had some affection for Miss Anderson but that her parents claimed she spurned him. Greenawalt was divorced and his wife and two children are living in Alaska.

A plane from the Port Angeles, Wash., Coast Guard station was to sweep the ocean west of here today looking for some trace of the plane.

Report Adlai Refuses Post

NEW YORK (UP)—Adlai E. Stevenson has been sounded out on a possible appointment to the new Civil Rights Commission but is inclined to turn down such an Eisenhower administration offer, the New York Herald Tribune said today.

The newspaper said it had learned "on good authority" that the offer had been made. It said Stevenson is one of several Democrats under active consideration for posts on the six-member commission.

"The word today on Mr. Stevenson's reaction to the Eisenhower bid hinted strongly that he would not accept," the newspaper said. "Each Democratic member of the commission will be handling a red-hot potato from the moment of swearing in. The South was bitterly opposed to the commission from the start as an unwarranted invasion of states' rights."

PORCUPINE MENACE

SYRACUSE, N. Y. — (UP) — Motorists have a new hazard — porcupines. State Conservation Department district manager Anthony S. Taormina said the porkies enjoy chewing the tires of cars parked by campers in the woodlands.

Local Campaign Against Fire Ant Launched

The first blow was struck today against the vicious fire ant which has invaded this area at a United States Department of Agriculture team, headed by A. C. Copeland, began the application of a poisonous chemical to infested parts of the 185-acre Osterland farm near Sterlington.

The five-man USDA team, aided by local and state officials, launched the attack by beginning to spread heptachlor, in granular form, using a "seeder" which covers a 15-foot swath of ground evenly with the toxic chemical. Copeland said the team will also use two blowers which can effectively cover a 25-foot strip. He estimated the time required is about five minutes per acre.

"We plan to treat the entire Twin City area eventually," the USDA official said, "but of course, we have to confer with city officials first."

Plans are being made, according to the agriculture department, for a complete survey of Ouachita

Victim Points Out Klan 'Boss'

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UP)—The Negro victim of a brutal sex mutilation today pointed out Joe P. Pritchett, 31, as the "boss" of a group of robed and masked Ku Klux Klansmen who brutally castrated him almost two months ago.

"That's the man they called the "boss," Judge Edward Aaron, 34-year-old Negro, said when he took the stand as the state's first witness against Pritchett.

NEW HOMES

Monroe Exceeds National Average

To what degree has new housing construction kept pace with economic growth in Monroe? How does the local home-building rate compare with that in other communities?

With the returns all in, tabulations have just been issued by the U S. Bureau of Labor Statistics on the number of new, non-farm dwelling units authorized in the past year. Nearly 7,000 localities across the country are listed.

In Monroe, the amount of home building was proportionately higher than in the United States as a whole. The 311 dwelling units begun or authorized locally were equivalent to a rate of 6.6 per 1,000 population. Public housing is not included.

This was above the national rate of 5.5 new units per 1,000 people. The report shows that it was above, also, the Southern States rate, 4.7 per 1,000.

Throughout the nation, home building declined in the year. The 1,120,200 housing units represented a drop of 18 per cent from 1955. Only one state, Florida, came up with an improvement. Nevada had the biggest dip, 43 per cent.

In Monroe, in line with this general trend, there was a drop. The Bureau of Labor Statistics shows a total of 311 units locally in 1956 as against 517 in the prior year.

The failure of the nation's home-building industry to move forward in step with most others is viewed as an anomaly. Its sharp decline occurred in the midst of general prosperity.

Some explain it as being due

Belief Grows Battle On With Khrush

LONDON (AP) — Indications grew today that Marshal Georgi Zhukov had rallied unexpected support in a showdown battle over power and policies inside the Central Committee of the Soviet Communist party.

The delay in announcing a decision on whether Zhukov would remain a member of the ruling party Presidium contributed to an impression that a battle was on between the marshal and Soviet party boss Nikita Khrushchev.

The impression was heightened by the tight Moscow censorship. Even the Communist press outside the Soviet Union seemed confused by the blackout on information.

Off And On

Hints of a behind-the scenes struggle came from editorials in Soviet newspapers, impressions of Western diplomats in Moscow and dispatches from Communist correspondents in the Soviet capital.

Inferences were drawn from reports the Central Committee had been meeting off and on since the 61-year-old marshal's ouster as defense minister Saturday. It had been expected to make an important announcemen early today after an all-night session, but it remained silent

However, news correspondents with experience in Moscow said the delay on any public announcement may be due simply to the mechanics of giving advance word to party committees throughout the country.

Stone Building

Reports to London had said the announcement would tell of the marshal's removal from the 15-man party Presidium which he joined as a full member only four months ago.

Editorials in the Communist press indicated the marshal was being accused of interfering with party control of the army.

The lack of an announcement suggested he may have staged a counterattack in the six-story gray stone building in the heart of Moscow where the Central

Aid-To-Schools Bill Dropped, Solon Reveals

WASHINGTON (AP)—Federal aid for school construction, twice turned down by Congress in the last two years, has been quietly ticketed for a House committee pigeonhole at the 1958 session.

A decision to drop the school aid fight temporarily was disclosed today by Rep. Cleveland M. Bailey (D-WVa), chairman of the House subcommittee on general education.

Next Session

Politics, the bitter school segregation issue and Democratic irritation with President Eisenhower's leadership in last session's school aid battle were all factors contributing to the decision, Bailey said.

Speaking to a reporter, Bailey asserted that as chairman of the House subcommittee controlling school legislation he intended to sit on the bill at the next session of Congress which opens in January.

"The administration had its chance last year," Bailey said, referring to the 208-203 House defeat handed a 1½ billion dollar aid bill which reflected most of the administration's proposals.

On this vote, 111 Republicans and 97 Democrats teamed to kill the bill. Against killing it were 77 Republicans and 126 Democrats.

"First of all, the Eisenhower administration wants to make a political issue of school grants," Bailey asserted. "An election year is a bad time to play politics with school needs.

Bailey, a strong backer of school grants, said he expects Eisenhower will renew his request in his 1959 budget message in January.

Warmer Weather Predicted Here

The weatherman states some of the nip may go out of the early fall cool snap. Partly cloudy skies and rising temperatures are forecast for tonight and tomorrow.

Yesterday's low was a chilly 29 degrees, which rose to a high of 60 under a cloudless sky. Today's low was 34, and the mid - morning reading at Selman Field was 50.

The local physician furnishing the daily pollen count stated the frosts of the past few mornings have ended the ragweed menace.

The low temperatures for tonight will range from 40-46, the highs tomorrow, 68-72.

Time For Victory In Cold War Runs Short—Sarnoff

WASHINGTON (AP)—Industrialist David Sarnoff, said today that time for victory in the cold war is running out under the pressure of Soviet success in weapon technology.

"If we are to win the cold war, or at least obtain the upper hand in it, it must be done before mankind is overwhelmed by the holocaust of hydrogen war," Sarnoff said.

Not Safe

Sarnoff, chairman of the board of the Radio Corp. of America and a retired Army brigadier general, addressed the annual meeting of the Assn. of the Army of the United States.

Sarnoff said the Moscow announcement last August of a successful test of an intercontinental ballistic missile "may be exaggerated but it is not safe to rely on that assumption." Perfection of an ICBM is inevitable because "both sides know its principle," said Sarnoff.

It is only a matter of time — "within five years and possibly sooner" — that both Russia and the United States will have mass production of the transoceanic missiles, he predicted.

A speaker hinted yesterday that the Army is hoping the Defense Department will relax its limitations on the permitted range of Army missiles.

Gen. Willard G. Wyman, head of the Continental Army Command, discussed the need for ground force missiles in addressing the Assn. of the U.S. Army

GIVE ENOUGH FOR ALL

IN CAPTIVITY — Siam, the lady elephant that went on a 13-day Catskill mountain vacation and became adept at avoiding capture, seems to smile with happiness as her trainer Joyce Vidbel, directs her trunk into a motor van. State police and volunteers finally ran Siam down. She was carted off to a warm barn she fled after she was frightened by a horse. (AP Wirephoto)

Safari Ends For Whisky Fed Elephant

MITCHELL HOLLOW, N. Y. (AP) —Siam, the Catskills elephant, munched today on whiskey-soaked feed while residents of this area relaxed. The unlikely safari was over.

The 21 ton female, considerably chastened by a cold and hunger, submitted meekly to her captors yesterday.

Settle Her Mind

This was not the same girl who had been romping in the Catskill Mountains for 13 days, defying safaris of all sorts, aircraft and her trainers.

Today she was back at the farm she fled Oct. 16. After a week's respose "to settle her mind" she again will take up the television and circus life that she had forsaken for a simple pastoral existence.

A posse trailed the tired animal yesterday several miles through woods until she finally halted near a quarry. She had been caught and broken away twice during the day.

Alfred Vidbel, one of her trainers, simply walked up to her and talked. She listened while an assistant put hobbling chains on her legs.

Then she lumbered up a ramp and was off to the farm she had fled when she was frightened by galloping horses.

A veterinarian, after making a quick check with a zoo, administered a shot of penicillin and prescribed whiskey in the feed. Two tumblerfulls were dropped in.

The veterinarian said that Siam's temperature was one degree below normal and that she had a cold in her eyes. But he found the 13-year-old suffering mostly from upset nerves and shock.

Couple Sleeps A Bit Uneasily

ALTOONA, Pa. (AP)—Walter Evans slept a little uneasily last night. So did his wife.

Late yesterday afternoon two autos collided at an intersection a few feet from the Evans home at nearby East Freedom. The autos locked together and smashed into a wall of the house.

Little more than three hours later a truck and auto came together and they, too, smashed into the Evans home.

The wall of the home was damaged but no one inside the house was hurt. Two of the four drivers were injured. One, Peter W. Odenthal, 44, of Portage, Pa., was reported in critical condition today.

"It makes a person wonder if they shouldn't move to a safer location," Mrs. Evans said.

Condition Of Burned Man Good

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Touro Infirmary today reported the condition of John Whitfield of Picayune, Miss., seriously burned Sunday, was good.

Whitfield, 20, and James R. Smith, 28, of Slidell, were burned when a molten bath erupted while Whitfield was adding soda ash to a reduction pot at the Kaiser Aluminum Chemical Corp. in Chalmette, where both work.

Smith's injuries were not considered serious. Whitfield received second degree burns over the upper part of his body and a portion of the lower part.

Cook Attending Oil Compact Meet

Duncan Cook, local district manager of the Louisiana Department of Conservation, is in Oklahoma City, Okla., attending a conference of the Interstate Oil Compact Commission being held Wednesday and Thursday.

About 35 states are members of the organization. State and industry representatives meet to discuss problems in oil and gas fields, such as exploration and wells.

'The Male Animal' Opens Tomorrow

The old adage, bad rehearsals make good shows, is not accepted by George C. Brian, drama director at Northeast State. The theory does not always work, he says.

Last night's rehearsal of "The Male Animal," which starts a two - night run at 8 p. m. Wednesday, was splendid, according to the speech instructor. "I'm reversing the ancient saying about preparations for shows." Brian says. "I'm genuinely enthusiastic about the opening night's performance — even after the dress rehearsal."

Another signal of success which characterizes "The Male Animal" is its timeliness. The play involves football season, the life of a professor and a college setting. Communism also carries an important role in the plot.

The three - act comedy is just as entertaining as it was when it made a first appearance, Brian contends. People who have seen the show are interested in seeing it again.

Besides its timeliness the production move at fast pace and is filled with hilarity, all features which usually capture spectator enthusiasm.

"The Male Animal" carries the highest royalty that Northeast's drama section has ever paid to present a play. It is the type of show which would call for a good price on Broadway, where it had successful seasons. "But the show is worth the cost," the local college director emphasized.

Both cast and stage crew have been working steadily. Enthusiasm has been running high in the two groups — even to members with the smallest jobs. Flu patients have returned to the stage, so every phase of the play seems to be running smoothly, Brian says.

Working with the director are Sue Turner, student director, and Linda Garrett, stage manager.

W. Monroe Will Resurface All Downtown Streets

Virtually all streets in the business area of West Monroe not recently resurfaced will be blacktopped in a project beginning tomorrow, W. R. (Slim) Townson, street commissioner stated today.

Officials of the city chamber of Commerce met with a representative of Bentz and Elmore, contractors for the job, and mapped final plans for the job and the method of financing.

Townson described the section to be paved as Commerce street between Wood and Pine, Wood street from Riverfront to Third and all streets not newly surfaced between Commerce and Cypress in the business district of the city.

Negro Held In Undisclosed Jail

KILN, Miss. (AP) — A 50-year-old Negro charged with the shotgun slaying of a white storekeeper was held in an undisclosed jail today for further questioning in connection with the Sunday night shooting.

Sheriff Sylvan Ladner said Leonard Fredericks surrendered without resistance yesterday. Sought in the slaying of Roy Ladner, Fredericks gave himself up at his home to state and Hancock County officers.

Customers in Ladner's store said a man with a shotgun moved through the front door and the 33-yer-old storekeeper shouted:

"If you want to kill me, go ahead."

The shot followed and Ladner, father of four children, fell dead.

Officers said Ladner and Fredericks had fought over money matters and Ladner broke Fredericks' nose.

Never From An Airplane

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. (AP)—City Patrolman Larry Eversull has often been asked for directions—but never before from an airplane.

The light plane landed on a city street yesterday evening near Eversull's patrol car and taxied over. The unidentified pilot leaned out and yelled he was "going to Montana" and where was the nearest airport.

The stunned policeman told him and the pilot took off.

"I should have given him a ticket," Eversull recalled too late.

Weddings Big Industry In Mississippi

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — More than 65 per cent of the marriage licenses issued in Mississippi last year went to out-of-state couples, to put the state right behind Nevada on number of marriages.

A fourth of the 66,223 licenses issued in Mississippi last year were issued in DeSoto and Alcorn counties, which border Tennessee and attract youngsters from that bordering state, a State Board of Health report showed.

Convention Issue

The report recalled attempts by Marshall County Rep. John Kennedy to get the Legislature to enact corrective legislation. Gov. J.P. Coleman has said Kennedy's bill will be submitted to the special session called for Nov. 5 if the constitutional convention issue is disposed of in time.

Forty-six per cent or 30,461 of the licenses issued in the state last year went to teen-agers and 69 per cent to persons under 25, the report showed.

"Large numbers of people come to Mississippi to be married because no waiting period or premarital examination is required, the board said.

Of the 66,223 women married in Mississippi last year, 12,005 came from Alabama and 10,847 from Tennessee. The brides came from every state in the union, the District of Columbia, Alaska and several foreign countries.

There never before has been a car like the Edsel.

A spokesman said Wilson had intended that the reductions be made out of $3,600,000,000 set up for procurement and production in research and development, rather than trimming basic research funds.

But the interpretation the various services attached to the memorandum resulted, in the end in the curtailment of basic research spending.

Two government scientists have suggested as one method of boosting U. S. technical programs the rapid translation of scientific data published in other languages.

Similar Service

Dr. Thomas W. Wilcox, chief of liaison and analysis in the Air Force Office of Scientific Research, said in a talk yesterday that Russia translate and abstracts such material from the free world within five to ix days after it is received.

Dr. Howard Wooster, direstor of research information for OSR, said the U. S. Armed Services Technical Information Agency could perform a similar service if given the necessary resources.

Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn) said in a speech in Lawrence, N. Y. yesterday that he thinks the West may be benefited by the Russian satellite launching.

"Nothing that I know of could have so shaken us out of the doldrums," he said.

and outlying parishes and a long-range fire ant elimination program. "We want to stress," Copeland added, "that this is an eradication, not a control program. The poison we are using is effective up to three years, and in that length of time, we hope to have wiped out the fire ant completely."

Although heptachlor is poisonous to all ants and many other kinds of insects, it is not considered harmful to livestock and human beings. Copeland stated, however, that dairy farmers would be advised not to graze their stock on treated areas for some time.

Property owners who have their property treated pay one-fourth of the cost of application, approximately 75 cents per acre, and the state and federal pay the remaining three-fourths. Congress has voted $2,400,000 for the year started July 1 to carry on the eradication program.

The fire ant, an imported pest, is very aggressive and has a vicious sting. It damages many crops by feeding on seed and young plants and attacks young animals, such as newborn calves and pigs and newly hatched quail and poultry.

Very Damaging

The mound-building pest, agriculture officials said, could render large acreages of farmland useless. There are no known natural enemies of the fire ant in this country.

"The fire ant is apparently pretty widespread in this area," Copeland said. "North and east toward Sterlington they are scattered as far as 15 miles."

Covering eight southern states, the fire ant infestation has extended from Houston, Tex., on the north to northern Florida on the Southern fringe. Research experts in the agriculture department have stated that the fire ant will spread as far as southern Pennsylvania if control and eradication measures are not taken immediately.

yesterday.

"I consider it dangerous to fetter our development now with arbitrary range limitations and rigid definitions," Wyman said.

Roles And Missions

A directive now limits Army authority to a 200-mile range for bombardment type missiles, and to a 100-mile range for antiaircraft guided missiles.

At a subsequent news conference, Wyman was asked about the remark.

Wyman replied he thought that when former Secretary of Defense Wilson issued the restrictions, in a directive on the roles and missions of the armed forces, he recognized that the area on missile development and use was "somewhat cloudy."

And, said the general, he thought the directive recognized that "there would be changes from time to time."

Wyman put his views into a speech which he read. But another high officer discarded a prepared speech which took pointed issue with some philosophies and claims of the Air Force and limited his actual talk to a mild discourse on the Army's role in air defense.

Obsolescent

Lt. Gen. Stanley R. Mickelsen, who is retiring as chief of the Army's Air Defense Command, scrapped his original text which said such things as "interceptor aircraft are obsolescent" and the Army's present Nike antiaircraft missile "can reach and kill any bomber that flies today."

Defense Department officials, conscious of interservice feuding and of a House subcommittee's intentions to look into interservice rivalries, were reported to be imploring Air Force officers to make no angry public rebuttal.

Today the association — composed of past and present members of the Army—was going to devote its attention to strategy with a program of talks and panel discussions.

find the original owner, the office added, it will seek to trace the owner to collect any taxes that might be due.

Consider It Mine

Maynor owns property in Durham and Orange County. He has declined to pinpoint the location. He said "I don't know for sure whether it is counterfeit, but if it's not and somebody proves ownership, I'll certainly turn it over to him.

"Otherwise, I consider it mine."

The find, Maynor said, consisted of 89 $1,000 bills and the remainder in $50 bills, all dated before 1946.

"It wasn't just lying around," Maynor said. "It was packeted for protection."

Police last night said they had no official report of the matter.

Belief Grows Battle On With Khrush

Committee meets.

Even if Zhukov eventually is vanquished, Western quarters are intrigued by indications that the tough marshal had been able to put up a fight at all.

The stage of the battle was the same as last June when Khrushchev is reported to have appealed to the Central Committee, after an adverse decision in the Presidium, and won out over the three stalwarts, V. M. Molotov, Georgi Malenkov and Lazar Kaganovich.

Khrushchev may have set a precedent then by which some Central Committee members got the idea they had a veto over the Presidium.

Senior editors of Moscow newspapers were called yesterday to a conference at which Western observers believed they were briefed on the expected announcement.

All the papers went to press this morning, however, with no mention of either Zhukov or the central committee meeting.

This was taken in some quarters as an indication that Zhukov had marshaled unexpected strength to resist the move depriving him of control over the Soviet military machine.

Not Available

The Communist Daily Worker in London said in a dispatch from its Moscow correspondent that Zhukov got into trouble with the party rulers by hindering the work of party commissars in the army ranks. These are the party appointees who keep tabs on army personnel independent of the military command.

The Daily Worker correspondent would have access to information not available to other Western newsmen.

During the night Moscow censors imposed a complete communications blackout for a three-hour period on Western newsmen in the Soviet capital.

When it was finally possible to get through by telephone from London just before dawn, the correspondents were able to say little except that much of their copy was being held up by censorship.

More Cautious

There was some speculation that Zhukov might have precipitated a showdown with Communist party boss Nikita S. Khrushchev by advising—as a professional military man—a more cautious approach to the Middle East

Khrushchev has been openly rattling the saber at Turkey and the United States, accusing them of plotting to attack Syria because of its new pro-Communist orientation.

Hindering Party

Zhukov has in the past been pictured as a conservative army man without inclination to take risks of war.

The marshal's distaste for party spies in the army is nothing new. The Daily Worker said it had been believed Zhukov's elevation last June to the Presidium would change his attitude toward commissars in the army. Instead, the worker declared, the Presidium "found even greater difficulties being place in the way of Communist organizations in the army."

Police Probing Background Of Robbery Suspect

Monroe authorities are continuing their investigation into the background of Charles Lantz, 21 - year - old Niagara Falls N. Y., man who reportedly has admitted the armed robbery of Henderson's Curb Market, 2000 Jackson street, last Thursday. The man has also admitted to robbery of a store in Harvey, La., and theft of a pistol, which was used in the Henderson robbery, from a man, also in Harvey.

Chief of Police James C. Kelly, Jr., said today that all but "less than $30" of the $250 taken in last week's robbery, was recovered.

Lantz was taken into custody by state police in Shreveport Sunday morning, and during questioning admitted the robbery in Monroe and elsewhere. He was returned by Chief Kelly and Chief of Detectives H. B. Johnson yesterday.

The man, absent without leave from Ft. Gordon, Ga., since early July, returned to northeast Louisiana a short while ago. He had been in the area during the army maneuvers earlier this year.

In other action yesterday, the police department investigated six accidents in which two persons were injured, and issued a total of 228 tickets.

Treated for a knee injury was Elmer L. Harmon, 39, 403 Wilmuth street, who was injured when his automobile collided with another at the intersection of North Sixth and Louisville avenue. The driver of the second vehicle was Mark Powell, 47, Demoine Motel, who was going east on Louisville. Powell was given a ticket for improper brakes.

Tickets issued included: three each for speeding and reckless driving; one for improper brakes and 221 for parking violations.

Air Reservists To Hear Details On Brainwashing

Lt. Col. Thomas Keller, commander of the Monroe Air Reserve Squadron, announced that the squadron has been "most fortunate" in obtaining the program that is to be presented Wednesday, October 30 at 7 p. m., 416 Louisville avenue.

A tape recording entitled "Prisoners of War" will be played. This tape tells in great detail just how the Communists went about "brain - washing" and breaking down captured American soldiers during the Korean War. Those who have heard this recording say that it is an experience "never to be forgotten."

Col. Keller invites the general public to attend this meeting.

The squadron announces three new members: Lt. Col. Joseph L. Sudduth of Ruston, Capt. Robert S. Whitelow and 1st Lt. John H. Jardine.

to a temporary saturation of the market but most experts, who feel that the demand for housing is still strong, differ.

The other reason usually offered for the recession is tight money. Although some deny this, most builders go along with the opinion. They note that the drop coincided with the first move by the Federal Reserve to tighten money.

Little doubt appears to exist in any circle, however, that a big boom in housing is but a few years off. The Senate Housing Subcommittee states that there will be a need of 2,000,000 new houses a year in the 1960's, when our big population growth is due.

Film Tycoon Louis Mayer Dies Of Anemia

12:35 a.m.

Mayer — for a quarter-century one of the movies' most powerful executives and from 1937 to 1943 the highest paid worker in the United States—began his business career assisting his father in a ship salvage business.

Born in Minsk, Russia, July 4, 1885, he was taken at three months to St. John, N. B. That was where he joined his father's business after a short public school education.

He entered the fledgling movie industry as an exhibitor in Massachusetts in 1907. He became a theater owner-manager, then a film distributor and finally — needing more films to show—the co-organizer of a production company.

He came to Hollywood in 1917 and from 1924 to 1951 was executive in charge of production at Metro - Goldwyn - Mayer Studio. MGM climbed to greatness under the production genius of Irving Thalberg. When he died in 1936, Mayer took over direct control of production.

Great Talent

His great talent as a discoverer of stars brought under the MGM banner the greatest galaxy in film history.

Among them were Marie Dressler, Mae Murray, Norma Shearer, Greta Garbo, John Gilbert, Lon Chaney, Nelson Eddy, Jeanette MacDonald, Clark Gable, Judy Garland, Greer Garson, Hedy LaMarr. Others were Luise Rainer, William Powell, Myrna Loy, Robert Montgomery, Joan Crawford, Rosalind Russell, James Stewart, Robert Taylor, Mickey Rooney, Spencer Tracy, Lana Turner, Walter Pidgeon, Esther Williams, Van Johnson and Margaret O'Brien.

MGM's profits rose with the increased output of glamorous, overstuffed movies during World War II. After the war, glamor wasn't enough, nor were stars. Mayer eventually was eased out and Dore Schary, former production boss at RKO, was selected to bolster MGM's sagging fortunes.

Mayer became chairman of Cinerama Productions Corp.

Rump Meeting

This year, however, he was projected back into the MGM picture as dissident directors of Loew's, Inc., the parent concern, tried to take over management of Loew's. Joseph R. Vogel, Loew's president, charged that Joseph Tomlinson, Canadian contractor, and Stanley Meyer, directors, had been "conspiring, with the guidance of Louis B. Mayer, to seize control of the company."

Dissident directors at a rump meeting elected Mayer a director but a court later held that the session was illegal.

Arguments In Bell Case Set November 12

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Arguments in Southern Bell's request for 2½ million dollars in rate increases in Mississippi will be heard Nov. 12 in Chancery Court here.

The arguments, in which each Southern Bell subscriber has a personal financial stake, will be before Chancery Judge Arnold Pyle.

Bell put the boost into effect in July 1956 under 2½ million dollars bond. The Public Service Commission, in denying the rate boosts, ordered Bell to return the increases to subscribers plus six per cent interest.

The commission turned down the increases last Dec. 20 after nearly six months of study and much testimony. Ten days later, Bell not only made the appeal to Chancery Court provided by law but also asked the court to cite the commission for improper handling of the case.

Gov. Knight Candidate For Re-Election

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—Gov. Goodwin J. Knight said again yesterday that he is a candidate for reelection. This time he did not say it quite as strongly, or so political observers thought.

There still was conjecture that Knight and Sen. William F. Knowland would find some way to avoid a head-on clash next June in the California Republican primary. Both have announced they would seek the gubernatorial nomination.

Knight, who has been suffering from flu, released a 550-word statement yesterday as he left for a secret vacation. He said "several of Sen. Knowland's staunch supporters" had proposed a deal: They would support him for the Senate if he left the contest for governor.

Knight said, "I have not entered into any such agreement."

He fell short, however, of completely ruling it out. He did not name the "staunch supporters."

The governor made reference to repeated assertions by Rep. Patrick J. Hillings (R-Calif) that Knight was considering a federal post. Knight said he had not sought or been offered any appointment but he did not say that he would not accept one. He had added that several weeks ago.

In Shadow Of Crosses

If all the human beings killed in highway accidents in the U.S. were buried in one area, each under a white cross, as was done in many burial grounds of American soldiers killed in war, there would be thousands of acres of such symbols.

Even for one year the assemblage of emblems would be terrifying to the observer. But this slaughter has been going on at an accelerated rate for more than 50 years.

It requires little imagination to visualize the "crosses, row on row," each one eloquently telling of a human being losing the spark of life.

Yet there is an assemblage of human beings still living, in the shadow of those crosses, whose lives are precarious, darkened by suffering, sometimes by mental derangement, sometimes by a hopeless conviction that they will never again enjoy life as do their friends.

These people, who live in the shadows of the crosses, are the ones who were injured—many of them permanently— in accidents.

Cold statistics show that 20 persons are injured in traffic accidents for every one who is killed.

The total list of tragedies resulting from accidents on highways and streets would therefore be equivalent to a large city inhabited solely by those who are more or less incapacitated from the ordinary enjoyments of life—because of the carelessness, recklessness, incompetency or downright guilt of those responsible.

This situation has become so alarming that the medical fraternity is making special studies in the field of rehabilitation of traffic-injured persons. All rehabilitation agencies have been deeply concerned with this problem for a long time.

What is to be gained in calling attention to such facts, day after day, week after week? That must be in the minds of all who read the newspapers.

The question is pertinent, but at least one answer can be found in the obvious proposition that it is only by constant repetition that drivers may be made so conscious of the constant danger besetting them that they will be more alert.

Accidents As Symptoms

There is a definite correlation between the number of accidents in which youths are involved and their emotional stability, according to a research project conducted at the New York University's Center for Safety Education.

This report buttresses the belief that individuals who are frequently involved in accidents or near-mishaps have an emotional maladjustment which prompts them into impulsive or erratic behavior.

Dr. Grace Ellen Stiles, the researcher who conducted the two-year project, found that children who averaged one accident a year had very definite emotional deficiencies.

Most of the accident repeaters were found to be emotionally immature, physically active and impulsive—traits which combined to lead them into accidents.

In suggesting ways of eliminating these emotional problems, Dr. Stiles includes a closer cooperation between elementary school teachers and parents. Teachers are able through trained observation and various testing methods to single out pupils whose instability may lead to trouble, and by cooperating with the parents, erase the cause.

Inasmuch as most of the emotional problems of accident-prone children, as uncovered by Dr. Stiles, are direct results of parental attitudes, there is an apparent need to educate the adults as well as their children.

Those emotional deficiencies which were most prevalent in the accident repeaters were insufficient love from parents, economic insecurity, a lack of self-respect and a desire to "belong."

Educators have long been targets of parents seeking causes for the behavior of their children. Perhaps it is now time for parents to evaluate their own behavior.

Census Of Religions?

It has been proposed that the U. S. Census Bureau include a question on religious affiliation in the 1960 nationwide census. The census director reports that information on religious affiliation has been requested by business, social welfare, education, research, housing and planning groups.

The Census Bureau already has jumped the gun and tested the question, "What is your religion?" in four counties in Wisconsin. Accurate statistics on religious affiliation could be of value to many businesses, groups and individuals.

A consideration that crops up is the matter of refusal to answer. This is a crime punishable by federal law. If a person will not answer and he is jailed, where is religious freedom as guaranteed by the First Amendment to the U. S. Constitution?

There are persons who scoff at this, contending that all that is proposed is to collect statistics. But it is in such subtle ways that personal freedoms can be chiseled away until nothing is left.

If religious bodies want to unite to conduct a church-sponsored or private census, there is nothing objectionable in that. But the proposal by the Census Bureau would violate the principle of separation of church and state and should not be permitted.

Automation Advocate

While most unions fear automation in American industry as carrying the threat of unemployment, Edward Swayduck is for it. This official of the Amalgamated Lithographers, with 35,000 members in 87 locals, proposes a $2 million management-labor fund to promote technological processes that will produce more goods with less labor.

Automation, he says, will lower costs and open new markets. That will be good for both the profits of business and the wages of labor.

The fund Swayduck proposes would be used to discover and harness new technological developments such as the running of one machine by another machine. Advance training for workers handling the new equipment would speed the transition period.

"Revolutionary changes affecting magazine and newspaper printing are on the horizon," he says. He does not think such progress can be held back.

Just Trying Out His Brakes Again

Knowland Shows Keen Interest In Labor Reform Laws

BY FULTON LEWIS

WASHINGTON— Senator William F. Knowland's growing interest in reform labor legislation is more significant than it appears on the surface.

He first announced in favor of a right-to-work law for his state of California as part of his platform in his campaign to replace the genial, back-slapping present governor, Goodwin Knight.

Behind the scenes, however, he took time out during a recent speaking tour in the East to spend long hours in a huddle with senatorial staff workers, on an extensive program of additional legislation at the national level. He left them with detailed instructions to begin immediate drafting of comprehensive legislation to be ready for him to introduce, in finished form, as soon as Congress convenes in January.

The fact that the whole pattern of his thinking is addressed to the principle of protection for the worker against tyrannical powers of the bosses, is important.

Bill Knowland is one of the most astute and incisive political appraisers of the day. He is giving up the Senate minority leadership for high stakes: first, the governorship, then the presidency.

For him to assume these positions means that he finds that the time is ripe for them and that they represent the thinking of the real workers. In short, that the rank and file want emancipation from their bullying overlords and he proposes to be the St. George who slays their dragon.

This, in turn, bodes no good for the Hoffas, Becks and others, because Knowland is not alone in his analysis. The labor rackets investigation has opened many congressional eyes. The trouble, up to now, has been an absence of leadership.

Knowland is the solution to that problem

The rackets committee will have legislation of its own in January, but it will confine itself to general operations of the unions. There will be an effective prohibition of secondary boycotts, and prohibitions against the expenditures of union funds for political purposes.

The Knowland bill, however, will concern the individual.

It will require secret-ballot elections for all union offices; a secret vote on recall of union officials whose administration has been challenged; a secret vote before any union can be called out on strike; protection of welfare and regular union funds against thieving exploiters; compulsory accounting to members for all funds of every kind; a ban against "paper" locals and "sweetheart contracts," and protection of individual members against intimidation or reprisals by the big boys

All of these points are finding amazing popular appeal, particularly the right-to-work proposal for California.

The population of that state includes hundreds of thousands of aged or aging persons who have retired on small pensions or annuities, the real value of which is being eroded by inflation. They eke out their monthly stipends through jobs in aircraft or other industrial plants, and they see no reason why they should have to pay five dollars a month in tribute-dues to an organization which does them no apparent benefit.

Furthermore, contrary to the propaganda of the blustery bosses, there is a swelling rank and file that is disgusted and disillusioned by the revelations of the Senate investigation and the arbitrary, dictatorial attitude of their officers.

This is specifically demonstrated by California newspapers since the delegates of the Teamsters union (largest in the state) got back from the Miami Beach convention.

The pages have been loaded with "explanations" by delegates as to why they voted for Jimmy Hoffa, and collaborated with his henchmen. In times past, they would not have bothered. They had the situation under control.

In 1952 the late Senator Taft pioneered in Ohio when he took up the cause of workers against the bosses, and the bosses got the clobbering of their lifetimes. Bill Knowland plays the same game, i California for governor, and nationally, for President.

Zhukovs Come And Go, But The Facts Of World Go On

BY ED CREAGH

WASHINGTON (AP) — Zhukovs may come and go. But the facts of the world situation go on. Maybe not forever, but at least long enough to make the replacement of a Soviet defense minister not much more than a ripple in a whirlpool.

It is tempting to speculate, of course.

Is Marshal Georgi Zhukov simply getting the bounce, or is he being kicked upstairs?

Is he, maybe, being groomed for the top job? Or for a special "be nice to America" assignment, in view of his onetime close association with President Eisenhower?

Or should he break out his wartime fur-lined boots and parka for a spell in Siberia who became president of the United States?

The simple answer is that nobody in the West seems to know.

Some of the Communist newspapers in Europe say with an air of Moscow-fed authority that Zhukov is in line for an important new assignment. That could mean anything or nothing. Zhukov could wind up running Russia's whole show or—with a title befitting his war eminence—shuffling papers in an outer Kremlin office.

This wouldn't matter, outside of Russia, except as a possible tip-off to Russia's intentions toward the rest of the world in the months ahead. And there is no reason to believe those intentions have been changed by Zhukov's being relieved of his duties, as the Soviet government puts it, any more than U. S. foreign policy was affected by the voluntary retirement of Charles E. Wilson as secretary of defense.

The broad outlines of the immediate future should be plain to anybody who reads the newspapers:

1. Russia is stirring up trouble, maybe even a war, in the Middle East. The Russians feel full of beans over the success of their Sputnik and the progress of their lon range missile program. They may or may not be calmed down by the recently announced power of American missiles — which, chances are, would not yet have been announced if the Russians hadn't launched the first satellite.

2. On both sides of the Iron Curtain a defensive beefing-up is being attempted. Eisenhower confers with Britain's Prime Minister on ways to strengthen the Western Alliance. The President may go to Paris in December to lend his personal prestige to the buildup effort. China's Mao Tse-tung definitely is going to Moscow next month for a talk with the Kremlin brass. And all signs point to a rebirth of the cominform, the old Red mutual aid association, or something very like it.

So, Zhukov or no Zhukov, the mushroom-shaped clouds gather.

Almost everybody — even, it sometimes appears, the men in the Kremlin—hopes they can be broken up. So far as the Middle East goes, the next two weeks may tell the story. The blowup which the Russians have been touting, and fomenting, is supposed to take place soon after yesterday's Turkish election. So far there seems no sign of actual warfare. But the United States, Britain and Turkey are set for maneuvers along the Turkish coast just in case.

However, the department did not compute yearly earnings because building trades workers seldom work a full year.

Mario Cioffi Is True Neapolitan

BY JIM BISHOP

NAPLES, Italy — The hood of the shiny old Fiat nods gently through the slums. Mario Cioffi embraces the wheel. He has but to look at his car and he falls in love with it all over again. He has been driving this Fiat since 1943 and he and the car have seen much. Together, they are growing old. Two grandchildren were christened from this car. "Two more," says Signor Cioffi, "next year."

He and the car have seen the Germans man the pillboxes on the road south to Sorrento and Salerno. They have seen the Americans bomb the docks of Naples and they have watched six - story apartments fold in slow motion and slide into the street.

The car is old but correct. It would be ashamed of a squeak. Mario is aging and correct. He is a true Neapolitan, the face thin and pointed; the long nose wrinkles with distaste to pull the lips back from the silver teeth. The hair is gray and growing away from the forehead. Signor Cioffi has good manners to spare, even when he is seething.

He was a Fascist. He will not deny it. Deep in his heart, he may still be one. He admired Mussolini and says he did "much good." The Duce's mistake, Mario says, was in shaking hands with "Hitler, a man who could hate whole races of people without even knowing them."

The Fiat swung south on the Autostrada and Vesuvius loomed big and black on the windshield. The Signor pressed the middle finger tip to the thumb to explain something of consequence. "As you know," he said, spitting the words, "sheesa no worka since 1944."

He prefaces much of what he has to say with the words "As you know" because he doesn't want to embarrass a client by presuming that he doesn't know. He talks of his grandchildren as he talks of his beloved Fiat. "Always 'appy," he says, shaking the head. "Half a loaf of bread and some fruitsa —they're 'appy."

His fingers point to a little town of shuttered windows coming up. "... you know," he says tentatively, "lachrymose Christy wine of tears from Christ." Over to the right, he [illegible] "is Sorrento." Near the sea [illegible] poor man on a honeymoon place. If he cannot take his bride to Rome, they go three days to Sorrento.

Further to the right, the Isle de Capri stands like an uncut sapphire in the sea. "Napoli," says Signor Cioffi, thinking of his beloved belly, "is de home of de pizza. Here we make de real pizza." Still, he does not have pizza at home. In the house, Mrs. Cioffi boils potatoes or beans and, with it, cooks macaroni. The Cioffis eat this with a big yellow melon called bumkins. Twice a week — because the Cioffis are fairly well - to - do — they have meat.

Sometimes, with the meat, they have peppers yellow and green in oil. At every meal, a liter of red wine. This costs lira 140 (23 cents). The Signor's earnings for today will be lira 6,150 ($10) not counting a $2 tip. He will need two and a half gallons of gasoline to go to Pompei and back. Gasoline costs $1 a gallon. Thus he will have $9.50 to take home, not counting wear and tear on his car, a $90 tax for his taxi, and a $50 tax for his automobile license.

There is television in Naples, but the Cioffis do not have a set. A 17 - inch screen costs $250 and the tax is $25 a year. A 21-inch set costs $300. "De car license," says Signor Cioffi, "is according to de horsepowder."

At Pompei, he declines to accompany his client through the ruins. It might offend the official guides, who earn $3.20. The city is composed of half walls and cobbled streets. It lays seven miles south of Mount Summa, the baby brother to Vesuvius which, on August 24th, A. D. 79, erupted.

No lava came down the grassy slopes. Ashes flew on the north wind and the 25,000 people of Pompei slammed their doors on it. The black rain lasted 3 days. When the people opened the doors, the gases from the ashes asphyxiated them, and buried their city.

They were gay materialistic people. They worshipped Caligula and Tiberius and Bacchus. The paintings on their walls today are all of erotic love. There is one home which the archeologists believe was maintained by two gay bachelors. There are parts of it which are not shown to women tourists.

At sundown, the client was [illegible] in the car with Mario. A l[illegible] rain had dripped on the Fiat a[illegible] the Signor had wiped it clean. "Pompei," he said, settling behind the wheel and winking, "she was some-' place, hey?" The client nodded. He was still thinking about the bachelors.

A Do - It - Yourself Project Opens

BY HENRY McLEMORE

Thanks to a company I have just formed, it is now safe for any man or woman to start a Do-It-Yourself project.

The name — "The We Finish What you Start Co."

There is no longer any need to look at an unfinished barbecue grill which you started with blazing enthusiasm but which needs two more months to go before it will ever have a blaze of its own.

Quit torturing yourself with that confounded bookcase, that flagstone walk, that patio windbreak. Just say, "I'm sick and tired of working on it," and call us.

The company's men work at night, so your neighbors will never know you were a quitter. When the job is done we give you full rights to claim the work as your own, to show it off, and to boast of your skill and patience. Our workers' lips are sealed. Not a single betrayal so far.

Nothing is so exhilarating as to launch a Do-It-Yourself project. It makes every man and woman feel worthwhile. But nothing is worse than to want to chuck the whole thing six weeks later when the project winds up off balance, wobbly-legged, or just plain ugly.

Until our company was formed, these half-completed jobs hung over a man's head like a millstone. Pride drove him on, while common sense said, "To —— with it!"

Here is a typical case history from our files:

Name: Burton Smallwood.

Project: Refinish old mahogany table which he and wife picked up for a song.

Start: Mad enthusiasm on Smallwood's part. Hurried through dinner to get going with sandpaper, paint remover, stain, varnish, shellac, and everything else. Gave up bowling with the boys to have more time for table.

First showed signs of weakening when, after two weeks of rubbing, rubbing, rubbing, discovered table looked no better than at start.

Snapped at wife. Resumed bowling. Worked at table only on weekends, and then spasmodically.

Finish: Quit table altogether after frightful scene with wife. Put table in garage, but couldn't forget it. Began shutting eyes when getting in car to keep from seeing it. Made evasive answers when friends asked him how table coming along.

Climax: Called "The We Finish What You Start Co." Agreed to terms without a quibble.

We dispatched crew shortly after sundown. Crew worked with garage door closed. Smallwood watched with happy smile on face, arm around wife's waist. Called her "Honeybunch" and "Sweetheart."

Crew finished work in three days. Smallwood called following week to congratulate company. Said he had given small dinner party and used table. Table drew high praise. Smallwood said he accepted it.

Also, said his highest joy came when a friend said to wife, "I wish Joe had the skill and patience to do something like that. He is always starting something, but he never finishes it."

The company's files are filled with similar cases. One man started a canoe for his son but gave up when he lost the blueprint and ruined a practically new suit. Like to have swatted son when son said "I didn't think you would finish it, Pop, so don't be upset." Called us in and now father and son as close as can be, and spend many happy hours paddling like mad.

So, go ahead and start your Do-It-Yourself program. You may launch a project you know you'll never complete with full confidence. We're behind you, be it birdcage or bungalow.

Switchboard open all night.

Bing's Wedding Follows Trend

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Bing Crosby's wedding to a girl the same age as one of his sons follows the trend in May - December marriages in Hollywood. And, perhaps surprisingly, such marriages have had a good average in a town where divorce is sometimes considered a way of life.

There is 30 years' difference between Bing and his bride, Kathy Grant. Far from being a handicap, the gap is considered an advantage by some observers of the filmland scene. Take a look at the record.

Many of Hollywood's mature leading men have chosen wives decades younger than themselves. It's true that such alliances are often second, third or fourth marriages. But they have stuck where others failed.

William Powell set the pattern in 1940. He chose as his third wife an MGM starlet, Diana Lewis. He was 47; she could barely vote. Hollywood gave the marriage six months. The Powells are still happily wed.

Humphrey Bogart, 45, had a headlined romance with his young leading lady, Lauren Bacall, 21. No one gave her a chance to accomplish what three other women had failed to do—tame Bogart. But she did it, and his last decade was the happiest of his life.

Rudy Valee was another three-time loser. In 1949, he married a University of California coed, Eleanor Norris. Though he was 29 years older, their marriage has remained constant.

Twice-divorced Cary Grant was another star who fell in love with his leading lady. She was Betsy Drake, with whom he appeared in the prophetic "Every Girl Should Be Married." When they married, he was 46, she was 26. They are one of the town's most devoted couples.

Saddened by the death of his first wife, Fred Macmurray found companionship with June Haver, also unhappy from a series of personal tragedies. They married when he was 45 and she was 28. She seems perfectly content to forget her career and take care of their home and their adopted twins.

Olden women were among Clark Gable's first four wives. As his fifth, he chose Kay Spreckels, 20 years his junior.

SECURITY FOR YOU

Social Security To Combine Checks

By RAY HENRY

During the next six months, the Social Security Administration plans to combine most of the checks it's now paying separately to husbands and wives.

By doing so, it will save about a million dollars a year.

The project will start in November and continue until April when the Social Security people figure the job will be completed.

If you're a husband or wife receiving a separate check, an explanation of the plan will be mailed to you within the next few months along with one of your monthly checks.

It will explain that unless you object your check automatically will be combined with that of your spouse.

The exact date you'll get the notice will depend on where you live in the United States. The job is being done on a sectional basis so the work can be spread out over a period of time to keep the cost down.

In any case, if you don't tell the Social Security people you object, the second check following the notice of the change will be combined with your husband's or wife's check.

For example: If your Nov. 3 check has the notice along with it, your Jan. 3 check will be combined — unless you object.

If you don't want your check combined, all you have to do is tell the Social Security people with in a month or so after you've received notice of the plan to do it.

The Social Security people don't expect many objections because it already has some experience indicating it.

Since September, 1956, it has been combining the checks of most of the husbands and wives who've been added to the Social Security rolls. In every case, permission to make the combination was requested. Only about two out of a hundred objected.

The Social Security people didn't ask, however, the husbands and wives living at separate addresses to combine their checks. It doesn't plan to do so as part of its current project either. Certain other groups of husbands and wives also will not be asked to do so, including situations where one of the persons has been declared incompetent.

The cost of preparing and mailing a Social Security check is about six cents, so you can see the savings involved with some 1,700,000 wives or husbands now on the rolls.

Although the full amount won't be saved by combining a wife's check with her husband's or vice versa, it's likely that about 5½ cents a check a month will be saved.

The immediate savings will be three cents postage, the cost of the check paper, envelopes, other supplies and equipment as well as some reduction ni the number of people handling the checks.

Besides this savings to the Social Security Administration, the combination will save a lot of time and money for banks and the Treasury Department.

The move to combine the checks largely grows out of the results of combining in recent years the checks paid to children living in the same household.

(You may write Ray Henry in care of this newspaper about your own Social Security or retirement problem. Please enclose a stamped, self - addressed envelope and 25 cents in coin.)

Bullish Times On Market May Be Ending Soon

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market has been telling us since mid July that businessmen are expecting a levelling off or mild retreat from the long business boom.

Stock traders felt that if such a dip in business activity and earnings was in the works, then most stocks were over priced.

They have a number of items in today's news to bear out their fears that bullish times may be ending for a while.

The question today is whether the correction in stock prices since mid July has gone far enough—has fully discounted in advance the business recession which may or may not be aborning.

Some think the market has over discounted the chances of a recession—that the big snapback last Wednesday marked the end of the price drop.

Since the stock exchange is an auction market in which some want to buy and some want to sell there are many who feel just the opposite. They hold that the stock price decline has still more distance to go before prices accurately mirror the chances of business being as good and earnings as high or higher next year.

Predictions about business are only a little more trustworthy than those about horse races. But there are a stick of them today to show what the wall street bears have been having in mind.

One hundred top industrial leaders have advised the department of commerce that they suspect a mild recession is starting and they expect it to last until the middle of next year at least.

The National Assn. of Purchasing Agents says its members are turning even more cautious now because new orders aren't coming in at the rate they had hoped for.

Steel leaders are revising their estimates of fall and winter business. Some now feel their output will stay about where it is now at around 80 per cent of capacity. A few weeks back the same ones were talking about a fall snapback that would bring production up to maybe 90 per cent of capacity.

A survey of 202 business and university economists by F. W. Dodge Corp. shows most of them looking for less industrial production in the months ahead but expecting prices to go right on rising. This would make the gross national product—the total dollar volume of the nation's goods and services—look bigger in terms of dollars, for whatever value they may still have.

Surveys of the expansion plans of industry show that big boom to be about to top out. More companies are now saying that they will spend less next year than this for new plants and equipment.

Disc Jockey Believes Trip Is Possible

HAMILTON, Bermuda, Oct. 29 (AP)—Disc Jockey Melvin West said yesterday he still thinks he could have made it from North Carolina to Bermuda in his 15-foot outboard motorboat if a fuel line hadn't broken.

West, 28, and his little craft were hauled out of the Atlantic by the Coast Guard early today and brought to Bermuda. The radio announcer had been at sea 11 days trying to make the trip. He left his home, Morehead City, N. C., Oct. 17 in his boat, "The Impossible."

Talking with reporters aboard the Coast Guard cutter Rockaway ir St. George Harbor, West looked little the worse for wear after his junket. He said a brass coupling from his gas tank broke after he received dry matches and water from a freighter Wednesday and he discovered the damage after 30 gallons of gas had flooded his bilges.

Out Of Gas

"I bailed the gas out of the boat as quickly as I could, but had this accident not happened I feel I could have reached Bermuda with six gallons of gasoline to spare," West said. "I had run out of gas on Thursday morning Oct. 24.

"Only God could help me express how I felt when the Coast Guard plane swung in toward me yesterday morning."

He said he asked the plane for 40 gallons of gas so he could continue his journey. But orders were out against such refuelling.

"I am practically positive I would have made it," West said. "I had fought winds of maximum velocity and when I was picked up I was only 160 miles from Bermuda. I would have made it."

Cost $300,000

The Coast Guard plane spotted West yesterday 165 miles northwest of Bermuda and adrift in rough seas. The plane dropped him a short wave radio and transmitter and emergency rations. Despite his pleas for more gas, the Coast Guard, which estimated his voyave had cost the government more than $300,000 in search and rescue efforts, sent the cutter to pick him up.

Ex-Red Praised For Testimony On Break With Party

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UP)—A Missouri physician told a Senate subcommittee Monday he quit the Communist Party in 1955, "disillusioned" by Communist Pg Boss Khrushchev's attack on the late Joseph Stalin.

Dr. Ralph Franklin, of Morehouse, Mo., was praised for his "frank testimony" by Sen. William E. Jenner (R-Ind.), of the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee.

"Doctor, if more people would do like you have, this menace of Communism would not be a threat to this country today," Jenner said.

Franklin said he was "immature politically" when he joined the party early in 1954 while a student at the University of Tennessee medical units here. Franklin said he was invited into the party by a classmate, whom he identified as Dr. Vincent Myers of Ohio.

Donald West, Douglasville, Ga., farmer, took refuge behind the Fifth Amendment when asked if he was in charge of the Communist Party in Atlanta. He invoked the amendment more than 20 times, even refusing to confirm his wife's name was Jeanette.

Robert Morris, chief counsel for the subcommittee, called him "one of the more prominent Communist organizers in the South over a period of years."

The committee hearings were proceeding quietly when Frank Schroeder, chief investigator, asked Mrs. Grace Lorch of Little Rock, Ark. to meet with committee members in executive session.

"I'm not going in there alone," shouted Mrs. Lorch, who figured prominently in the integration troubles at Little Rock's Central High School.

Mrs. Lorch protected a Negro student from a jeering white mob the day the Negroes were turned away from Central High by National Guard troops.

Pointing her finger at Schroeder, Mrs. Lorch said she would testify only with a lawyer and "with a whole roomful of people listening."

The United States versus Russia in the area of air defense will be the subject of a two-hour program to be held at Selman Field tomorrow night for northeast Louisiana Army Reservists. The program will begin at 7:30 p.m.

Major Emil E. Wisakowsky, unit advisor, said that a team headed by Lt. Colonel Henry L. Havens and assisted by Captian Art Doyle is in charge of the activities.

The first hour of the presentation will deal with the threat posed by Soviet air strength, and the United States Army, Navy and Air Force equipment which might be utilized to counter the threat.

The second hour will deal with the Army Air Defense missile program, with emphasis on the Nike-Ajax guided missile system.

The team will have numerous photographs and several displays of current Air Defense equipment.

Bayou DeSiard Shad Clearing Starts Soon

The Bayou DeSiard shad elimination project was scheduled to get under way today following the arrival last night of a five-man crew of specialists from the Louisiana Wildlife and Fisheries Commission.

Start of the work hinged upon arrival early today of a supply of Rotenone which will be applied to the waters of the bayou. Don Geagan, fish biologist from New Orleans, was to arrive here today to direct the operations, according to Joe L. Herring, Monroe district supervisor.

Funds Sufficient

Robert Downing, vice-president of the Ouachita Wildlife Unit, has asked that contributions to the fund for the Bayou DeSiard improvement project be discontinued since a total of $3,300 has already been received, and the amount is sufficient for the job. It had been estimated that cost of the project would be $3,000, and Downing said money left over would be placed in a special fund for future stream work in the parish.

Provided the Rotenone arrives in time to begin its application today, the wildlife crew will start at the pump station on Loop Road and reach Bastrop highway by Friday. Commercial fisherman Jesse F. Jones and a crew have been hired for $850 to remove the deas shad from the stream. Downing said this phase of the work would require about 10 days.

Thanks Expressed

Downing expressed "gratitude and thanks on behalf of the Ouachita Wildlife Unit to all those persons, organizations and businesses who contributed to the project," which is being undertaken to improve fishing in the bayou.

Supreme Court Rejects Appeal By Spy Sobell

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29 (UP)—The Supreme Court yesterday rejected a new appeal by Morton Sobell who was convicted in 1951 of conspiring with atom spies Julius Ethel Rosenberg to slip U. S. secrets to Russia.

The high court turned down his plea that his case was prejudiced by the prosecution's cross-examination of Mrs. Rosenberg at their joint trial.

But the court did not act today on other appeals on behalf of Sobell, who is serving a 30-year prison term in Alcatraz federal prison.

In other actions today, the court also:

—Refused to allow 14 private organizations to file documents in support of the appeal by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People from a contempt conviction in Alabama.

—Upheld a lower court ruling that the New Orleans Insurance Exchange illegally conspired to monopolize the fire, casulty, and surety insurance business in the New Orleans area.

—Denied a hearing to Jimmy N. Shaver, now under the death sentence for the fatal beating of 3-year-old Chere Jo Horton, of Bexar county, Tex.

NO VIOLATION

DETROIT — (UP) — Robert Smith got some good news when he pleaded guilty to backing his car through an intersection. Traffic Referee Oscar Riopelle informed Smith there is no law against backing a car through an intersection and dismissed the case.

We all have to buy new clothes once in a while for different members of the family. The first thought is who shall I buy them from. This one will do the work of two!

This one all-weather motor oil gives you the easy starting of a light motor oil... the high temperature protection of a heavy motor oil. It's one oil combining the different advantages of a light and heavy oil for all driving conditions.

Users of TROP-ARTIC* All-Weather Motor Oil never have to worry about using different grades of oil. TROP-ARTIC is a light oil and heavy oil in one (grades 10W through 30). Furthermore, it lubricates and protects your motor far better than any of the old-fashioned "single grade" oils.

The reason is that TROP-ARTIC never gets too thick or too thin. In a cold engine it flows quickly for easy starting . . . fast protection. In a hot engine it retains the "body" necessary to prevent wear at high temperatures. It reduces friction to save you gasoline. It keeps your engine clean. Compared to old-fashioned oils it can even double engine life.

Guaranteed All-Weather Lubri-tection! Use a crankcase full of TROP-ARTIC for ten days or up to 1,000 miles. If you aren't completely satisfied that it lives up to all the claims made for it, your Phillips 66 Dealer will replace it with any other available oil you prefer at no additional expense to you. Texas A & M Moves Into Number One Football Spot

Aggies First In Both AP, UP Ratings

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.
The Associated Press

The Texas Aggies again showed that even the best college football teams can't afford to let down for a moment as they rolled into first place in the Associated Press weekly ranking poll. Oklahoma proved the point as it slipped to second after a close call against Colorado in the opinion of writers and broadcasters from 36 states and the District of Columbia.

It was the second time this season that Oklahoma's Sooners, unbeaten in 45 consecutive games, had lost the lead just because they didn't win decisively. They dropped behind Michigan State after their 21-7 victory over Texas then regarded as a comparatively weak foe; regained the No. 1 spot a week ago, then dropped behind Texas A & M today after Colorado had held them to a 14-13 decision.

The Aggies, meanwhile, rolled over Baylor 14-0 for their sixth straight this season and their fourth shutout in six starts, thus gaining stature in the eyes of the sports writers and broadcasters participating in the AP balloting.

Out of 166 voters this week, 59 put the Aggies on top and 54 listed them second. Oklahoma drew 51 first place votes and 54 for second. On the basis of ten points for each first place vote, nine for second, etc., the Aggies outscored the Sooners 1,457 points to 1,418. It was the closest contest for first place so far this season.

Only these two teams were ranked in the first ten by all 166 voters. No one put the Aggies lower than eighth while Oklahoma was given two votes for ninth place and two for tenth.

Iowa's Big Ten leaders retained third place with 20 first place votes but from there on down the order bore little resemblance to the top ten of a week ago as upsets and close calls brougth about a fast shuffle.

1.	Texas A & M (59)	1,457

YET SO FAR—Bob Rasmussen, Minnesota lineman, appears to be mourning in this critical football situation. The ball is only three inches from the goal line, where a Gopher halfback was stopped on fourth down. But the futile Gopher effort came late in the game. Michigan, who took over at this point, had a comfortable 24 points to 7 for the Gophers—the final score. (AP Wirephoto.)

Harris-Besmanoff Bout Set Tonight

HOUSTON (UP) — Schoolteacher Roy Harris, one of Floyd Patterson's hottest challengers, come off the inactive list Tuesday to meet Willi Besmanoff in a brawl that could give Patterson bad dreams.

The statistics:

Besmanoff, a chunky 24-year old baker turned boxer and billed as Germany's best since Max Schmeling, dumped every rated light-heavy in Europe and demolished French heavy king Maurice Mols in nine heats.

Willie promptly knocked out his first sparring partner here last week with a lightning fast left hook. He has 19 kayos to his credit.

Besmanoff sports a 43-7-3 record and since turning heavy in the U. S. has whipped Cal Wilson and Bob Baker but dropped close ones to Archie McBride, Alex Miteff and Yvon Durelle.

But the solid German, weighing in at 186, doesn't concede those last three fights. He said he wasn't accustomed to the aggressive American style. In Europe, they judge on boxing tactics.

"But, I think I've got everything in my head now—this fight will show that," he said.

But the lesson could be expensive.

Harris, who teaches a fifth grade school in colorful Cut and Shoot—an East Texas backwoods community where the Harris name is held in awe by the 200 inhabitants has won 22 straight.

The Texas heavyweight champion, muscular 23-year-old scion of a family famed throughout Montgomery county for its bare-knuckle fightin' men, has decisioned Baker and also speedy Willie Pastrano.

The Pastrano hassle, which drew a local record $46,000 gate last June, vaulted Harris into the No. 3 national rating. He has been idle since then waiting on a contract return match with Pastrano.

The big question Tuesday is whether the 190-pound Harris is "state." But Roy's supporters, who'd just as soon shoot any dissenters, are putting up their hog money that he isn't.

Florida Stops LSU's Winning, Not Taylor's

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Florida broke Louisiana State's winning streak but the Gators were unable to stop the Tiger's Jimmy Taylor from padding his lead in the Southeastern Conference scoring race.

The Tiger fullback barrelled over for one touchdown and kicked both conversions in LSU's 22-14 loss to the Gators. That brought his league-leading total to 62 points for the season.

Taylor thus already has scored more points this season than last, when he took SEC scoring honors with 59.

Another fullback, Molly Halbert of Mississippi State, scored a touchdown in State's 25-13 victory over Alabama and moved into a tie with Billy Cannon of LSU for second place. Both have 36 points.

Fullback Billy Atkins of Auburn, who got a TD and PAT in the Houston rout, is fourth with 32.

ALABAMA

Tatum Suggested As Successor To Coach Whitworth

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UP) — Jim Tatum, who has rebuilt the shattered football fortunes at the University of North Carolina, yesterday was suggested as a possible successor to head coach J. B. Whitworth at Alabama.

Sports editor Naylor Stone of the Birmingham Post - Herald quoted an informed sources as saying: "Representatives of the University of Albama have talked with coach Tatum. Coach Tatum and I are warm friends. I know he definitely is interested in the job."

At Chapel Hill, N. C., Tatum, professing to have enough troubles of his own getting the University of North Carolina ready for Saturday's game with Tennessee, denied that he is interested in the Alabama job.

"I don't know anything about it," Tatum said. "I saw it in the paper, and that's all I know about it. I'm working like hell to have a good team here at North Carolina."

"Of course, I can't hate anybody for considering me for the (Alabama) job, but I have not been contacted by any Alabama officials. "I think it was just somebody on the street who said 'Tatum would make a good man for Alabama.'"

Whitworth's contract at Alabama expires Dec. 1 and the faculty committee on physical education and athletics has recommended that the three-year agreement not be renewed.

Paul (Bear) Bryant of Texas A&M; Frank Moseley of Virginia Tech; Red Sanders of UCLA; Harry Gilmer, backfield coach for the professional Pittsburgh Steelers; and Johnny Cain, backfield coach at Mississippi, have also been mentioned as possibilities.

Dr. Frank A. Rose, president-elect of Alabama, had said a successor will be named by Dec. 1 so he can start recruiting high school stars when the "open" season starts in the Southeastern Conference.

Wildlife Unit Slates Meeting Of Importance

Discussions on the rotenone shad eradication program in Bayou DeSiard and fish and game law changes are the important items on the agenda of tonight's monthly meeting of the Ouachita Wildlife Unit at 7:30 at the Penn Hotel.

Unit president Arthur "Bud" Tidwell said an "unusually good" film of interest to rabbit hunters and beagle hound owners will also be offered at the meeting. Several committee announcemnts are also due at the meeting and the usual door prizes will be given away to a man and woman attending.

It was disclosed yesterday that enough money had been raised for the shad eradication project but the rotenone has not arrived in time to begin the job tomorrow.

Association members will also present resolutions for unit approval regarding any changes in the fish and game laws they wish to promote before the Louisiana legialature through channels of the Louisiana Wildlife Federation.

Giles Delighted Barlick Is Back

CINCINNATI (UP) — National League President Warren Giles expressed "delight" today that Al Barlick will resume his umpiring duties in 1958.

Barlick, 42, was forced to take a leave of absence when he was stricken with a heart strain during spring training of 1956. He was given permission to resume his umpiring career by Dr. Richard Allyn of Springfield, Ill.

'GATORS MINUS A COUPLE

GAINESVILLE, Fla. — UP — Florida Coach Bob Woodruff hopes the Gators will return to full strength by Saturday for a trip to Auburn. They may be without the services of star halfback Jim Rountree and sparkplug quarterback Jimmy Dunn. Rountree suffered a sprained ankle against LSU Saturday, while Dunn was banged up and had several old bruises aggravated. The Gators worked in sweat clothes and heard a scouting report of Auburn Monday.

Bobby Shantz Is Comeback Player Of Year In NL

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — "It was darn nice of the fellows to remember me," said little Bobby Shantz today upon learning he had been voted the American League comeback player of the year in an Associated Press poll of baseball writers.

Sixty-nine of the 152 participating writers in the annual poll voted for Shantz. Gene Woodling, Cleveland outfielder, was named on 32 ballots. Ted Williams of Boston, who won the league batting title, was third with 12 votes followed by Washington outfielder Roy Sivers and Baltimore pitcher Billy Loes, each with nine.

Shantz' modest reaction was typical of the tiny southpaw who almost quit baseball two years ago because of shoulder miseries. His troubles started in September 1952, the year he won 24 games for the Philadelphia Athletics and was selected the league's most valuable player.

In mid-September, Shantz was hit by a pitch and sufferd a broken wrist. Then came the shoulder trouble — torn tendons, the doctors said. He won 13 games in three years for the Athletics who later became the Kansas City A's.

"If they had released me, I'd have quit baseball," said Bobby.

What cured the arm?

"Frankly, I don't know. Fans sent me bottles of all kinds of stuff, everything including horse liniment. I tried them all. Actually though, I think rest really did it. I saw at least half a dozen doctors took hundreds of X-rays, held the arm up, down and out, but I think rest did it."

AUBURN IN SWEAT CLOTHES

AUBURN — UP — The Auburn Tigers worked in sweat clothes Monday with one man on the injury list as work began for the homecoming game here Saturday with Florida. Second string guard Frank Larussa, who failed to make the Houston game Saturday because of an injury, still is sidelined. Auburn reported all reserve tickets for this weekend had been sold.

Keeps Perfect Record So Far In Season

By NORMAN MILLER

NEW YORK — UP — Texas A and M, which preserved its perfect record without much difficulty last weekend while other leading college football powers narrowly staved off defeat, moved up to within five points of top-ranked Oklahoma today in the United Press ratings.

Oklahoma, with its 45-game winning streak, retained the No. 1 rating, but its 75-point first-place lead of last week dwindled almost to the margin of its 14-13 squeaker victory against Colorado. The Texas Aggies handily won a Southwest Conference showdown with Baylor, 14-0.

Iowa, which was "lucky" in keeping its record spotless with a 6-0 triumph against Northwestern, dropped from second place to third behind the Texas Aggies.

North Carolina State was the week's only newcomer among the top 10 teams, replacing Mississippi. N. C. State moved from 14th to 10th place following its 14-14 tie against seventh - ranked Duke. This was the Wolfpack's second tie of the season, to go with four victories.

Oklahoma was the No. 1 choice of 17 members of the 35 - man coaches board which rates the teams weekly for the United Press. Eight made Texas A and M their top choice and one voted for Iowa.

First - place votes were unusually scattered this week. Fourth - ranked Auburn attracted four, sixth-ranked Michigan State had 3.

Jim Crow, Heart Of Aggies, Likes To Run Over Foe

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP)—The heart of the Texas Aggies as they roll unbeaten along the football trail rated No. 1 in the nation is a big guy who just likes to run over people.

He's John Crow, a 210-pounder halfback who never considers defeat. He's the fellow who assures the coach there's nothing to worry about, that the team is going to win the ball game come what may.

It doesn't matter to Crow who does it either. For that reason Coach Paul Bryant says he's "an All-America in my book. He has only a burning desire for the team to win."

But Crow usually is the individual who puts the team over. If it isn't running over people like a truck it's making the big play on defense.

Last week Bryant changed the defense up somewhat and Crow didn't think he had done the proper job in the new plan. "Don't give up on me, coach," he said after the game, which A&M won 14-0 over Baylor on the running and de ense of Crow.

Big John doesn't run up and down the field like a Red Grange or a Jim Swink. His running is more subtle. Some of his greatest has been for two and three-yard gains at the goal line.

"I prefer to grind out three and four yards at a time on our touchdown drives," he says. "To me, that's football."

What the big man from Springhill, La., meant was that he liked to run over people.

Last week against Baylor he blasted for 78 yards, set up the first touchdown with 33 yards in chunks of from two to 16 yards and then scored the second touchdown with an 8-yard smash. He also knocked a Baylor player away from a fumbled ball he was about to cover so teammate John Gilbert could recover it and stop another steaming Baylor drive.

The guy has a way of making 3-yard plunges and mundane tackles spectacular because they always mean so much.

Burdette Honored By Hometown

SARASOTA, Fla. (UP) — Milwaukee pitcher Lew Burdette, still exhilarated over his World Series performance, played hero all over again Monday night for "hometown" folks who saved their celebration for his return.

Burdette, who whipped the New York Yankees three times in the series, was feted at a banquet. He spoke only briefly, but admitted he was still up in the air over the Braves' victory.

"I have had an awful funny feeling for about a month now," he confided.

Burdette, who moved his family here in 1954, was honored with a homecoming parade through the city and a ceremony at Payne Park in which he was presented a 75 horsepower cabin cruiser, a gold key to the city and a bronze plaque. The homecoming ended with a banquet Monday night.

The cabin cruiser was financed by donations from school children and local citizens.

Mitchell Has No Interest In Kansas Job

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (UP)—Arkansas football coach Jack Mitchell last night denied any interest in the head coaching job at Kansas University, a post now held by Chuck Mather.

Mitchell was replying to a story in the Kansas student newspaper which said the Razorback coach "seems interested." The story, written by Daily Kansan co-sports editor, George Anthan, stated that the school's board of directors may be seeking a replacement for Mather.

Mather, a highly successful coach at Massillon, Ohio High School, has won only one game this fall while losing four and tieing one.

Mitchell said he was "shocked" that his name had been mentioned. "I'm perfectly happy here and the idea of leaving is ridiculous."

The former Oklahoma football great said "there is no truth whatsoever" in reports he had either been "approached" or was thinking of leaving Arkansas.

Wilkinson's Sons Showing Promise Of Grid Powers

By CARTER BRADLEY

OKLAHOMA CITY (UP) — Oklahoma football fans heard their first official words about a couple of promising high school players named Wilkinson — sons of the nation's winningest coach.

Their coach said the boys are wonderful kids to work with. Papa Wilkinson, in turn, said he thinks their coach is doing a fine job.

The boys, Pat, 16, and Jay, 14, play for Norman, Okla., high school. Also located in Norman is University of Oklahoma, which hasn't lost a football game in the last 45 starts. Pat and Jay's 41-year-old father has won 99 games since he became coach there in 1947.

The prospects for winning No. 100 against Kansas State at Manhattan this week were put aside briefly at today's meeting of the Oklahoma City Quarterbacks Club to hear about the next generation of Wilkinsons.

Buddy Brothers, one-time University of Tulsa coach, was called upon for a report on his success as coach of Norman High. Brothers mentioned a couple of other players, and said Norman has won five and lost two games this year.

"We have some folks down there in the lineup you'd be particularly interested in," Brothers said. "Their name is Wilkinson. After watching them it is easy to see how it would happen that Bud is in the profession he's in, and has done so well."

Brothers said it's a shame Bud and Mrs. Wilkinson didn't have more boys. The prep coach said he could use more Wilkinsons.

Brothers, who quit coaching for two years after a successful season at Tulsa in 1952 to enter private business, said the hardest tackle he has seen this season was in scrimmage when Pat tackled Jay. Pat is a senior fullback, Jay a sophomore quarterback.

"I wish Pat could have saved that for a ball game," Brothers said.

Wilkinson, who is mum on college plans for his boys except to say he wouldn't want them to play where he is coach, volunteered an observation regarding Brothers. Wilkinson himself played for Minnesota.

"Having two boys at Norman High School, I'm delighted to have them under a man like Buddy Brothers," he said. "The Norman school board couldn't have done any better."

Doubleheader For Jr. Highs Set Tonight

Neville Stadium will be the scene of a junior high school football doubleheader tonight when South Monroe meets West Monroe and North Monroe tackles Holly Ridge.

The North Monroe-Holly Ridge clash is set to start at 7 o'clock with the kickoff in the South Monroe-West Monroe contest slated for 8.

North Monroe has won two games, beating Ruston, 20-0, and Jonesboro-Hodge, 34-0, and lost to South Monroe, 14-0. Holly Ridge's record is unknown but is expected to put up a good game.

South Monroe is undefeated with victories over Ouachita, 41-6, Jonesboro - Hodge, 45-12, Ruston, 33-0, and North Monroe. West Monroe has played only one game, defeating Bastrop by a 6-0 count.

Boxer Tiller Is Semi-Conscious For Five Months

SHEFFIELD, England (AP) — Boxer Jackie Tiller was still in a semi - conscious condition yesterday, five months after collapsing in his dressing room following a fight.

Officials at the Sheffield Royal Infirmary said there had been "no significant change" in the condition of the bantamweight professional who was knocked down three times May 28 in a fight against Eric Brett.

Tiller was unconscious for many hours after the fight. An operation was performed late in the spring to remove a blood clot in the brain.

Evashevski Looking To Michigan Game

IOWA CITY, Iowa, Oct. 29 (AP)—Coach Forest Evashveski yesterday pointed a finger at the date on the calender—November 2 — then gave worried look.

On that date Evey takes undefeated Big Ten football champions into mammoth Michigan Stadium. Iowa is unbeaten in five games, three of them in the conference, and has a nine-game winning streak dating to Nov. 3, 1956.

On that date another Michigan team upset the Hawkeyes, putting the only blot on an otherwise perfect record. The winning touchdown in the 14-3 victory, came with 66 seconds to play after Michigan trailed 14-3 at halftime.

Iowa was without defeat in five games (three in the Big Ten) when its November engagement with Michigan came up. The striking similarity in events is too great.

Evey, a tremendous blocking back for Michigan in the days of all-America Tom Harmon, has never beaten the Wolverines in four games as Iowa head coach. Two defeats were by one point and one by three. All came after the Hawkeyes led by from 11 to 14 points at halftime.

But Iowa has always had trouble with Michigan. The last time the Hawkeyes beat the Wolverines was in 1924. An Iowa victory Saturday in the nationally televised game would be a personal achievement for Evashevski.

Evey said plainly todayh e was worried about Michigan. "They're a November ball club." The Wolverines have won four of five games this fall.

Iowa, No. 3 team in the weekly Associated Press poll, is not as good defensively as last year, Evey said, although it leads the nation in rushing defense.

"We just went through a 'lost weekend' as far as doing the team any good," he said. Evey referred to last Saturday's 6-0 triumph at Northwestern in the snow and mud.

Marshall Keeps Scoring Lead In Hockey Group

NEW YORK (UP)—Willie Marshall of Hershey tallied three goals and two assists for five points last week to maintain his lead in all three American Hockey League scoring departments.

The 25-year-old center now has a total of 18 points, five more than Cleveland's Jimmy Moore. Marshall's nine goals and nine assists are also league-leading marks.

Bill Sweeney, a rookie with Providence, and veteran Dunc Fisher of Hershey are tied for third place in total points with 12. Johnny McLellan of Cleveland is fifth with 11 points while four other players each has 10.

Eddie Shack of Providence, as fresh a freshman as the AHL has seen in many years, has registered 45 penality minutes to hold on to his lead in this department.

Hershey's Gil Mayer has taken over the goaltending honors with an average of 2.20. He has allowed 11 goals in five games. Gerry McNeil off Rochester has recorded the only shutout to date.

First heavyweight boxing show held in Yankee Stadium was on Saturday afternoon, May 12, 1933. Jess Willard fought Floyd Johnson. Luis Firpo met Jack McAuliffe and Jack Renault battled Fred Fulton.

Bonita Meets St. Matthews In Cage Game

The boys, who beat Mer Rouge, 56-53, in overtime Friday night, will have Bradley Biggar, Jimmy Tonore, Jimmy Devereaux, Salvatore Pittaro and Abdella Elias in the starting lineup.

SPARKLING NEW STYLING, spotlighted by a handsome new grille design unique in the automotive industry, enhances the 1958 Buick Century convertible with the verve and dash of a sports car. The new Century, like all other cars in the Buick line, is equipped with dual headlights and a daring new fender and hood line that accentuates the new low silhouette. Buick's improved variable pitch Dynaflow transmission is standard on the Century.

Buick Presents Its New Car Line

FLINT, Mich., Oct 28.—Buick today presented its 1958 line of cars with which General Manager Edward T. Ragsdale hopes to capture a greater percentage of industry sales next year.

The 1958 models, with dynamic new styling, feature the new Dynaflow transmission, improved barkes with thicker linings and a host of other engineering changes.

The new cars are now on display at Lennon Motors.

The new Buicks come in five series, topped by the new Limited, a distinctively-styled luxury model which is Buick's new entry in the prestige car market.

All models are equipped with dual headlights on each front fender.

The new styling features are apparent from every angle, with the most spectacular change in the grille, which is unlike anything ever offered in the industry.

The fender line has been lowered and the hood line raised slightly to complement the new front end design.

A "V" and ring adorn each front fender on all models to make it easier to gauge distance in traffic.

A panel of ribbed aluminum, trimmed in chrome, extends along the side of the rear fender on all models except the Limited. On this series, the rear fenders, which are eight inches longer, are trimmed with three banks of chrome-capped louvres to make it more distinctive from the rest of the line.

Blames Lack Of Solidarity For Bill Flop

DALLAS (AP)—The president of Mid-Continent Oil and Gas Assn. told the Independent Petroleum Assn. today the Harris-O'Hara gas bill failed this year for four main reasons, including lack of industry solidarity.

Charlton Lyons Sr. of Shreveport, La., in a prepared speech, gave these reasons for failure of the Harris-O'Hara bill to pass Congress:

"The amendments offered by the administration: the bitter opposition of the coal and allied interests; the lack of industry solidarity and socialism."

Lyons said, however, the "administration made clear that they (the amendments) were offered as suggestions, not as mandatory requirements."

He said the Staggers bill introduced by the coal industry would "subject to federal regulation all gas sold by pipeline companies... directly to industrial consumers. Such sales are not now subject to federal regulation." He asserted the bill also would prohibit pipeline companies from selling such gas for "less than the cost of such gas."

The bill, he said, would force the price of gas up and "coal could then supplant gas in industrial markets."

"Paradoxial as it may seem," Lyons said, "the third reason why the Harris-O'Hara bill did not pass this year lies within the petroleum industry itself—the lack of industry solidarity.

"But the failure of the bill did make crystal clear what must be done, if the bill is to pass in 1958: The entire industry must unite and aggressively support the bill."

Lyons said there were no alternatives. "It is the Harris-O'Hara bill or regulation on a strict utility basis," he said.

PARTY NAMES CANDIDATE

ASUNCION, Paraguay (UP)—The dominant Colorado Party said today it had chosen President Alfredo Stroessner as candidate for re-election in the presidential elections scheduled for next March. Stroessner immediately accepted the nomination, the party said.

RUSSIA BLAMED FOR SPLIT

STRASBOURG, France (UP)—The Consultative Assembly of the Council of Europe has put the blame on Russia for the continued division of Germany. While urging council member nations to work for world disarmament and German reunification, the assembly said Monday that Germny can not be reunited so long as the Soviet Union refuses to allow free elections in Communist-controlled East Germany.

Deaths From Flu Nearing 430 Mark

By UNITED PRESS

Deaths from flu and its complications approached the 430 mark today, and an Illinois health official investigated the possibility some flu fatalities may have been caused by viral encephalitis.

A United Press survey since the first outbreak of Asian flu in the United States last summer showed 421 deaths caused by flu and its various complications.

New York State had the highest fatality rate with 126 deaths. Pennsylvania followed with 78 deaths. Michigan 37, California 31, Illinois and Louisiana 21 each, Iowa 15, Ohio 14, Wisconsin 12, Utah 11, Colorado 10, Hawaii 9, Connecticut 7, Kentucky and Indiana 6 each, Washington 4, New Jersey and Tennessee 3 each, and 1 each in Arizona, Maine, Missouri, Minnesota, Oklahoma, Oregon, and the District of Columbia.

Dr. Norman J. Rose, assistant deputy director of the Division of Preventive Medicine in the Illinois Department of Public Health, said one of the fatal complications might be influenza viral encephalitis.

Rose said laboratory tests are being conducted in "three or four" cases to determine if death was caused by viral encephalities.

Encephalitis is a form of sleeping sickness characterized by an inflamation of the brain lining.

Most of the deaths blamed on the current flu outbreak have been caused by pneumonia, a frequent complication of influenza. However, U.S. Public Health authorities said there was evidence some of the fatalities were caused by the Asian flu virus itself.

Flu outbreaks appeared to be on the wane in some hard hit states, but new epidemics were reported in other areas.

School officials in Cleveland, Ohio, reported the flu situation "very much improved." Flu also appeared to be tapering off in Indiana with the Evansville area the only section still feeling the full effect of the flu outbreak.

However, in Wisconsin, where an epidemic hit Milwaukee, health officials said the flu was shifting its force from cities to rural areas. Health authorities said 86,682 persons have been stricken with influenza since last month.

By, for, and about WOMEN

IT TAKES more than a single pair of gloves to complement your fall and winter wardrobe as this new "longer" shortie illustrates. These cotton gloves have twig-and-leaf embroidery, subtle and classic for your knits and tweeds, correct from dawn through day, deceivingly simple.

Fabric To Leathers In Glove Wardrobe Subtle And Classic For Knits, Tweeds

By MARIAN RAHL

You can spend any amount for gloves from fabric at just a few dollars to elegant "jewel box" editions in luxurious leathers that retail at $100 a pair! While the need for the latter is not an average one, it does require a group of different glove styles to complement even the most casual wardrobe.

News in glove styles has the "shortie" in slightly longer lengths. Much embroidery, cutouts, pleats, the sparkle of jewels and edge of lace all seen in dress-up gloves. A wide range of colors—at one house 20 in all—makes it easy to match or at least create close harmony with fall and winter costumes.

Classic shortie lengths for casual wear come in fine quality cotton, double woven for firm and smooth lines and workmanship. (These can be worn through all seasons in many areas.) Fabric colors, never more varied include lovely neutral tones in pale bisquet to deeper tawny tones of gold. Embroideries on these suggest the great outdoors in tiny leaf or branch patterns. They are perfect with your knits, tweedy woolens and leather jackets.

Glace gloves, a favorite with many women for dress wear, come in many colors and have beautiful embroidered touches — down the back of the glove, or a single flower, etc. Suedes also in guaranteed washable gloves may have flat tucks and even gem cut stones — emerald, pear shape and marquisite to mention a few.

The new longer lengths, lightweight washable leathers and wonderful colors in the current styles are expected to carry over into spring. Your wardrobe of gloves will be smart for some time.

CLOTHES QUIZ

Fake Furs Have Place In Many Wardrobes Now

By BETH BLAIR

Fake furs are still the fashion answer for many women. Full-length coats, jackets and all sorts of accessories are shown for the fall and winter seasons in a range of synthetic weaves that simulate many members of the animal kingdom. A reader writes —

Dear Miss Blair:

Is poodlecloth still in style? I have a jacket in this fabric—a boxy silhouette. Also, I have a slim gray flannel suit skirt. Would a red and gray jacket be good with it?

Your poodlecloth jacket can still be used for sports or casual wear. If the collar or edges are worn perhaps you can add a knit edge in matching colored wool. A red and gray striped or plaid jacket can be combined with the slim flannel skirt. It can be either a fitted or straight jacket depending on which you feel is most flattering to your figure.

Dear Miss Blair:

I have a tan blouse, buttoned down back with beads and pearls around the front neckline. Is this out of style? If not, where can it beworn? Could the beads be taken off successfully?

This type of blouse when combined with the proper skirt can be worn for special luncheons, cocktails, the theater or any dressy occasion. It would not be wise to remove beads and pearls for the material most likely will be marked from the thread. However, if you want to remove them, sew some velvet or ribbon around the neckline to replace the old trimming and cover any marks that might show.

EMILY POST

Suggestions From Host Put Guests At Ease

Dear Mrs. Post: Quite often my husband and I invite friends to dinner in a restaurant. When it comes time to order, invariably our guests choose something very inexpensive and I always have the feeling that they might like something else but hesitate to order it because of the price. But as I can't order first I don't know how to make them feel perfectly free to order whatever they would like in spite of the amounts which appear after each item. Have you any suggestions as to how to handle this situation?

Answer: The best thing to do, if you happen to be a rather enthusiastic person, is to look at the menu and say "Oh! filet mignon, that is what I'm going to have," and then, as if you were apologizing for having spoken first, you say, "What will you have?" But if you are a rather reserved person and not given to exclamations, you could say to the waiter, "Is your filet mignon good?" or "Are the sweetbreads fresh," etc. This would give your guests some idea of what you intend to order.

Answering An Official's Invitations

Dear Mrs. Post: I work for a public official who receives many invitations to social functions which I have to acknowledge for him. These are often printed in the third person. Must they be answered in the third person, and if so, may they be typed on a letterhead?

Answer: If the invitations are to him as an individual and sent to his house they must be answered by hand in the third person and on his home writing paper. If they are to him as an official they are still answered in the third person on his official paper but they may be typewritten.

From Three To Six O'Clock

Dear Mrs. Post: I have been invited to an open house reception in honor of a twenty - fifth wedding anniversary. The hours specified are from three to six o'clock. Will you please tell me how long one properly stays? May one stay the whole three hours?

Answer: One stays as long a one wishes to — the whole three hours if one is really enjoying oneself.

One reader asks how to introduce family and friends. Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. Leaflet E-17, "Introductions," explains how to introduce someone and how to reply to an introduction. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to Dept. EP, c-o this paper, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

MARY HAWORTH

Woman Is Hurt Because Mate Went To Night-Spot

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I would appreciate your opinion and advice on a subject that probably will be of interest to thousands of wives—the subject of conventions.

Formerly I had no qualms at all about my husband's going to conventions. Then about two months ago, after having attended a convention in a mid-west city, he remarked that he and a few other men had gone to a nightspot 'more risque than usual," in an outlying district, where they drank with bar girls and watched a type of floor show that I consider immoral.

To me this is an awful thing for married men to do—and very unfair to their wives. My husband says that I make too much of a triviality. He says there is nothing wrong in a few business men having a look at this kind of night life; and that it 'just isn't normal" for me to get so upset about it.

Thinks Alcohol Leads Men Astray

I can't describe the hurt I feel when I picture my husband drinking with a bar girl (a prostitute, really), and seeking that kind of association—even though he does nothing wrong.

I contend that all the drinking that goes on at conventions could cause a person to misbehave, as he never could otherwise. Don't you agree that too much alcohol will make a normally fine, high principled man lose his inhibitions?

Shouldn't all wives attend these conventions with their husbands, so they won't do these things? I have developed a dread of conventions, as I have responsibilities at home and cannot go every time. What to do? Thank you.

C.R.

Normal Honest Wifely Reaction

DEAR C.R.: Any sensitive open-hearted wife, who fully identifies herself with her husband, is bound to feel shocked and ineffably grieved, on learning that he has gravitated to the company of ribald women whose time is for hire.

She feels as if the archstone of the marriage has fallen; as if the husband has soiled and degraded their conjugal affiliation, in loitering for diversion in a risque atmosphere, where an evil burlesque of sex attraction is the theme of activity.

She feels either reduced to nothingness, in the role of love partner; as if the spirit of intimacy and exclusiveness has been violated; or as if challenged to compete with a wanton in her husband's fancy—when, as and if he tells her about an adventurous excursion into this "side show" of life, to drink with bar girls and watch the type of revelry that goes on there.

Man Is Trying To Heal Himself

Such are your feelings—angry, desolate and confused—when you say vehemently that this is an awful thing for husbands to do; and very unfair to their wives. And that you can't describe your hurt, as you try to follow him spiritually into such a situation—as if, in the sharing, you could somehow heal the rift in subjective relationship that his carelessness has dealt.

And of course there is a rift—in his consciousness, too. That's why he finally got around to rehashing the nightspot episode in a fragmentary way he is trying, maybe unconsciously, to grope his way back to untiy and clarity with you, in the wake of a demoralizing experience—a brush with evil that fascinated him at the time, perhaps; but which he feels a need to be cleansed of, in retrospect. Not that he feels wicked, consciously; but rather, that he wants to feel right again, in relation with you—and somehow, this incident stands between. In his conscience, that is.

So there's really no sense in husbands trying to fool themselves that this kind of convention behavior doesn't matter. Certainly it matters. Your own sick reaction proves that. And it is dishonest for husbands to argue that the wife's distress is abnormal—or the trouble-factor—when the marriage shows injury, as a result of such trifling.

Drinking Is More Excuse Than Cause

Drinking is not to blame. It is more excuse than cause. If wives went along, there'd be less risk involved, no doubt. As for what to do now, my answer is: pray your way out of preoccupation with evil imaginings. For help in this, get such pamphlets as "Prayers for All Occasions" or "Prayers New and Old" from the Forward Movement Publications, Cincinnati 2, Ohio. (The cost is probably 15 cents per pamphlet, plus postage).

COLD SNAP TO LIFT

LAKELAND, Fla. (UP)—Weathermen said Florida should begin warming up today from an early season cold wave that sent temperatures plunging to record October lows throughout the Sunshine State. The cold snap struck early Monday morning, warming only slightly by daybreak today. Frost dotted low ground spots throughout the northern districts and interior central sections, but caused little crop damage since farmers managed to protect the few crops exposed.

New York Bids Graham Farewell

By ALVIN REBS

NEW YORK (UP)—The churches that sponsored Billy Graham in an evangelistic crusade that turned out to be the most impressive in the nation's history bade him a sentimental farewell Monday night.

Graham was given a testimonial dinner by the Protestant Council of the City of New York, an organization of about 2,700 churches in the metropolitan area that brought the fiery evangelist here to pump new religious vigor into both the ministry and the laity.

The evangelist was thanked for preaching 120 sermons that resulted in nearly 60,000 "decisions for Christ" following his Madison Square Garden rallies and meetings elsewhere in the area.

The council considered the Graham crusade so successful that it has embarked on a program of continuous evangelism, budgeted at a million dollars a year.

The dinner was attended by members of Graham's crusade "team" of 35 workers, ministers from the area and members of the New York crusade executive committee that raised nearly two million dollars in private donations to conduct the crusade.

In his farewell address to the group, Graham warned again, as he did repeatedly during his crusade, that unless the free world "picks up the Christian flag" the flag of the Communist hammer and sickle "may win the world."

"There are two answers to life," Graham said. "One is the Marxist answer. Communism offers people something and it has dedicated people working for it."

The other answer to man's problems, Graham said, was to be found in Christianity, but "the Communists may win the world unless we have an equal dedication for the principles for which we stand."

In an aside, the Baptist minister said he had been surprised to see how many of his fellow southern ministers had "taken an even stronger stand" regarding the recent outbreaks of racial violence than he had ever thought possible.

"Not all southerners are like what you have been reading about in the press," Graham said.

Urges More Aid To U.S. Indians

CLAREMORE, Okla. (UP)—An Indian leader and a U.S. congressman today called for more federal help to Indians.

Joseph R. Garry, a Coeur D'Elene Indian from Idaho, and Rep. Ed Edmondson (D-Okla.) were the first speakers to appear before the National Congress of American Indians.

Garry blasted what he called federal attempts to break up and disband Indian tribes, and Edmosdson called for better Indian health standards.

Garry called for the repeal of a congressional resolution which relaxes federal supervision of Indian tribes in the first main speech of the week-long conclave.

"This resolution was designed to make us lose our identity as American Indians and make us lose our land — the land we hold as our birthright," Garry said.

Edmondson noted that the Indian infant mortality rate is nearly three times as high as the non-Indian rate, and the Indian tuberculosis rate is five times greater than other races.

"The United States must double and redouble its efforts in Indian education and health during the next 10 years to accomplish an honorable termination program within the foreseeable future," Edmondson said.

Civic Center Seen As Key To Convention Boom

By DANNY BINGHAM
Staff Writer

Monroe has just completed a week during which it was host to three conventions bringing about 500 men and women to the Twin Cities area along with the thousands of dollars they had set aside for spending here.

These are only three of an estimated 30 such gatherings here during 1957. They will have brought approximately 7,500 visitors and a quarter of a million dollars to Monroe.

Yet, Monroe is missing the boat, in the opinion of the majority of civic leaders.

The survey shows that last year alone, Monroe lost an estimated $1,000,000 in convention business—a sum which would have brought the convention expenditure here to one and a quarter million dollars.

Civic leaders attribute this loss of revenue to one thing. Monroe simply does not have adequate facilities for large conclaves, as is borne out by the fact that the Chamber of Commerce and other organizations turn down convention opportunities for just such reason.

Natural Center

A talk with Twin Cities leaders reveals that Monroe is considered a natural center for conventions from an area, state and regional standpoint. They declare that organizations which have held their conventions here in the past have obtained a pleasant impression of the community.

New Orleans gives an idea of the economic aspect of conventions. Last year, that city saw some 82,000 convention delegates pouring an estimated $7,500,000 into the tills of hotels, motels, restaurants, service stations and garages, department stores, entertainment centers and other business establishments which make up any municipality.

Monroe's hotels, motels, eating and entertainment facilities compare favorably with any similar population class city in the Southwest, but, after this point is covered, the business minds of the city consider that Monroe is "left at the post in the literal race for the convention dollar."

Must Modernize

They say that "gone are the days when you can herd thousands of delegates into a cow pasture with a lure of barbecue in 100-degree summer weather. The modern convention chairman wants comfort and he lets you know that 'our delegates expect to pay for it'."

The concensus is that here is one dam holding back this flow of dollars into the Twin Cities. That is a large municipal center which can accommodate large conventions, sports events and cultural programs.

These leaders point to Shreveport as an example of what adequate facilities can do toward bringing conventions and similar gatherings to a community. Each year, literally tens of thousands of people troop to Shreveport to enjoy cultural entertainment, to transact business at wholesale shows retail displays and exhibits which are a part of any large type convention. Here in Monroe, such progress is penalized because such space is at a premium.

Efforts Inadequate

One hotel manager put it this way. "We do the very best we can, both from a standpoint of housing accommodations and display space, but, you've got to remember that even sample rooms have their limitations."

From the positive side of the picture, Monroe's four modern hotels and score of up-to-date motels offer an attraction to the convention visitor from an accommodation viewpoint. However, after this observation, the "Battle of the convention budget" gets pretty rough.

Thanks to the civic pride of Twin Cities service organizations, city officials and professional people, Monroe is getting its current fair-share of convention money based on its all-around features, but, these leaders point out, with just a few added facilities, the Twin Cities could really come into bloom as a big convention center.

Actor Douglas Sticks Neck Out On Wallace Show

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—Kirk Douglas believes that "every once in a while you have to stick your neck out."

He doesn't mean that you or I or anyone else has to. He's speaking only for himself, K. Douglas, actor. And he's stuck his neck out, too.

On Saturday evening he appears on "The Mike Wallace Interview" thus becoming the first Hollywood star of the first magnitude to undergo Wallace's special brand of searing cross-examination.

The interview was filmed recently in Munich, Germany, where Douglas was making his new movie, "The Viking."

"Knowing Wallace's reputation for putting a person on the griddle, everybody urged me not to do it," Douglas said. "But I found a find of challenge in it. More valid, from my viewpoint, however, is the fact that I feel every once in a while you have to stick your neck out.

"I mean that I as an actor, every so often should be seen offbalance by the public with the chance that I'll fall on my face. The public deserves a chance to see it."

As everyone recognizes, this courageous attitude is quite unlike that of nearly all stars who dread above all things that they may at some time, just once fall flat on their faces before the well-known public.

Of the interview itself, which the public will see Saturday evening, Douglas said it was completely impromptu and that Wallace "surprised me a few times. He pays a little rough, so I was a little rough too. I called him a snob—and I hope he didn't cut that out of the film.

"Frankly, I liked Mike better after the interview than before it. He seems able to take it as well as dish it out. It's true that some of his questions are unfair, but I think I see why he does that. He wants to throw you off balance.

"I think Wallace fulfills a worthwhile purpose. People are interested in people and Wallace tries to get to the truth about a person.

ACCIDENT ENDS IN DEATH

TACOMA, Wash. (UP)—A man driving to pick up his wife at a hospital struck and killed her with his car Monday as she walked toward him. Madigan Army Hospital spokesman said Harlan J. Stone accidentally stepped on the gas pedal instead of the brakes as Mrs. Stone, 52, moved in front of the auto to enter on the other side. Mrs. Stone, who had accompanied her daughter to the hospital, died shortly afterwards of head injuries.

VOICE OF BROADWAY

By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

Dorothy Kilgallen is on vacation. Her guest columnist today is a charter member of Cafe Society's International Set, Peppy De Albrew.

Peppy De Albrew Writes

As one who has been a part of both the show business and society worlds for more than three decades, I have to laugh whenever I see a modern representation of the Roaring '20's, and the even more glamorous '30's sometimes done by actors and directors who were not even alive when this fabulous period in history was being created.

Unfortunately, what modern show business magicians conjure up as being an authentic look at things as they were then usually comes out a pallid and luke-warm representation of this wonderful period. As a Broadway dancing star of the '20's I feel that I am qualified to make the criticism.

Nothing, in my opinion, will ever again be quite as wonderful, wacky, delirious, and glamorous as this country during the '20's and the '30's.

We of the show business world inserted glamour into our cafes and Broadway productions. In 1933, I brought the famous Place Pigalle Club, intact, from Paris. I imported Veloz and Yolanda, the dancing team, along with the original "can-can" chorus from France, and broke into the New York spotlight with all the glitter, abandon, and tinsel that an entire Folies Bergere troupe invading New York would create nowadays.

Twenty-five years ago, a supper club or night club without a flamboyant and colorful floor show was an unheard of thing. At the Place Pigalle, Enric Madriguera, who directed the orchestra, wrote a song titled "May I Have This Waltz With You, Madame?" Every night I used to choose the most beautiful woman on the dance floor as my partner, and she would begin the evening by dancing to this number with me. Among the women I selected who were frequent patrons at the club, were Gloria Vanderbilt, Peggy Hopkins Joyce, Lady Furness, and the French star, Mistinguette.

In what nightclub today can you find as romantic and charming a gesture as this?

Everything about the '30's symbolized glamour. When one entered a night club, one was immediately struck by the beautiful woman adorned in jewels and furs, with their escorts all impeccably attired in white tie and tails.

Yet, when a customer enters a night club today, he is likely to be confronted by an array of sleepy people, all garbed in the clothes they would normally wear to their office!

Our floor shows 25 years ago were glorious and bright, luxurious to the extent of making today's floor shows seem as uninteresting as a cup of cold tea.

In 1935, I imported the original Chapeau Rouge from Marseilles, and started the famous De Marco dancing team, along with the Moulin Rouge's French star Jean Auber.

The real star of the show, however, was my white pony "Glu Glu." He would appear on the floor every night adorned with gold ostrich feathers in his mane, completely covered with gold lace, and with baskets of orchids saddled along his sides. The effect was spectacular, and the little pony soon became the adored favorite of all my customers.

With the exception of one or two night clubs, there is no place in New York today where you can find the spectacle and lavish displays that distinguished our floor shows back in the '30's. Today, New York has its full share of restaurants and supper clubs. But it sadly lacks the gay and glorious late-night spots that were the trade-mark of our roaring '20's and '30's.

Many explanations have been offered. The best, perhaps, is that we were a product of a gay age. A war had just ended. Income taxes were low. The depression had not yet taken its full toll. And we were people who were not pressed by the atomic bomb, taxes, and other worries that trouble young people today.

None of today's female stars have quite the mystery and exotic qualities of our vamps. One of my happiest memories is watching Ina Claire, Lillian Tashman, Norma Talmadge, Pola Negri, the Dolly Sisters, and Irene Bordoni parade down a long flight of carpeted hotel stairs.

Where, today, can you find a singer who can capture the heartbreak of Fannie Brice singing a blues song? And where can you find a cafe entertainer with quite the spice of Mistinguette?

When I see today's young actors impersonate the stars of the '20's and '30's, I immediately see how incapable they are of doing a good job. Such close friends of mine as Helen Morgan and Jeanne Eagles have been sadly mistreated in their modern-day celluloid and TV biographies.

Helen Morgan was much more than she has been represented to be in her present-day counterparts. She was probably the world's most kind-hearted person. We met when we were singing together at the Club Lido. I used to take her for late-hour drives in a handsome cab through Central Park, and, while making the nightclub rounds with her, she would freely give her expensive bracelets and other jewelry items to the hatcheck and cigarette girls who admired them.

When I see today's young crop of actresses, I can only realize that they can never attain the mysterious beauty that enveloped such a woman as Helen Morgan, or so many of her contemporaries.

I can perhaps best summarize my argument by describing the premiere of my Sea Bright Yacht Club, during that period, in New Jersey.

On the opening night, I charted a special yacht to bring guests from New York. To make it a really glamorous evening, I arranged to have the club covered with white and purple orchids. I sent a boat out to meet the guests, it, too, bedecked with flowers, and manned by four adorable children, who dressed in the club's colors, personally greeted each arrival.

Can you think of any recent night club openings for which such gala preparations have been made?

No, New York clubs today may have their glitter. But they can never recapture what we knew back in the "Jazz Age" of champagne, glamour and dreams.

In contrast, it was 43 at Boston, 44 in Minneapolis, 41 in Detroit and 38 in Chicago.

Temperatures in the 30s also were general in the northern Plains and the Northern Rockies but southerly winds warmed the Southern Plains and the Middle Mississippi Valley. Westerly winds also bringing warming trend was reported from Texas northeastward through lower Michigan.

Dry weather prevailed in most of the country.

Fair and warmer weather was the outlook for most areas east of the Mississippi River as well as in the lower and Middle Mississippi Valleys and the Southern Plains.

School Bands Invited To LSU

BATON ROUGE (Special) — High school bands throughout the state are being invited to participate in Louisiana State University's annual Louisiana High School Band Day, to be held on Saturday, November 16.

All high school bands in the state have been asked to attend the LSU-Mississippi State football game on that date and perform during the half-time ceremonies.

L. Bruce Jones, LSU band director, said entries are being received daily by the band department and that band officials hope to have 75 or 80 bands for the event.

A new formation for the bands has been planned and a special score has been prepared, Jones said. All bands participating will be sent copies of the formation sheets, with their individual formation positions marked. Each band will also receive the complete isstrumentation score for its part in the musical program.

Selections to be played by the bands will include "Touchdown for LSU," "Fight for LSU," "Sweet Dreams," "Tiger Rag," the LSU alma mater, and "Dixie."

Democrat-Times Says Miss. Editor Being 'Smeared'

GREENVILLE, Miss. (AP) — The Greenville Delta Democrat-Times said today a Mississippi newspaper editor is being subjected to a "smear" in the mistaken belief she is an integrationist.

The Democrat-Times said "ardent racial extremists" acted against Mrs. Hazel Brannon Smith, editor of the Lexington Advertiser, after her picture was published in the Negro magazine "Ebony." The Democrat - Times denounced "those who would smear Mrs. Smith solely on the basis of a situation over which she had no control.

The Greenville newspaper said Mrs. Smith "has consistently supported Mississippi's segregated school system" and said, "She has been branded and labeled without trial, and furthermore falsely accused."

Ebony used Mrs. Smith's photograph in an October article entitled "The Fight of Southern Women," telling of white women in the South who have taken a stand on the rights of Negroes.

"Nowhere in the article was Mrs. Smith mentioned nor did the writers talk with her," said the Delta Democrat-Times. "Although nothing was said of Hazel Smith's views, there was the implication that she was in accord with. . .integrationists."

The Delta Democrat-Times said, "A group of people unfriendly to Mrs. Smith purchased copies of Ebony and showed them all over Holmes County."

Mrs. Smith has frequently written editorials in support of rights of Negroes.

IN ZHUKOV'S 'RELEASE'

Army's Change Of Hands Most Important Factor

By CHARLES M. MCCANN
United Press

The most significant thing about the "release" of Marshal Georgi H. Zhukov is that control of the armed forces in Russia has changed hands.

Marshal Rodion K. Malinovsky, Zhukov's successor as defense minister, is now head man over the 4 million men in the Red army, navy and air force.

There are two powers in Soviet Russia, the Communist Party and the armed forces. Many experts foresee the day when the army may be the supreme power.

Nikita S. Khrushchev is first secretary of the Communist Party, and thus controls the party machinery which reaches into every city, town and village in the Soviet Union.

A tip off to Zhukov's "release" may be that for several weeks the 15-man Communist presidium which rules Russia has been trying to tighten up party control of the most powerful military force in the world.

Khrushchev On Wane

There were indications six weeks ago that Khrushchev's prestige was diminishing.

He had saved his job as party secretary only with Zhukov's help.

Increasing emphasis was being put on Zhukov's rising prestige. There were even suggestions that he was now Russia's biggest man.

On Sept. 10 diplomatic reports reached London that Khrushchev had ordered party control of the army tightened.

These reports said that Khrushchev intended to re-establish party cells in army, navy and air force units.

It was through these cells that Josef Stalin kept firm personal control of the armed forces. Zhukov, though a Communist from boyhood, did not like them. They were abolished after Stalin's death.

Little attention was given to these reports at the time. But a United Press London dispatch which told of them suggested that they might foreshadow conflict between Khrushchev and Zhukov.

Bing Gets Congratulations From Everyone--Except Gary

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—A happy Bing Crosby and his pretty bride settled down today to a workday marriage—but there was one worry on the old groaner's mind.

He admitted in an exclusive interview that they had received congratulations from all his four sons except Gary, the eldest.

"I don't know why I haven't heard from him," Bing said. "He must be on a tour or something."

Gary, at 23, is a few months older than the new Mrs. Crosby, actress Kathy Grant. He is stationed in Germany with the U.S. Army, and spends much of his time entertaining troops at remote bases. Conceivably, like some of the natives of the Belgian Congo, he could be among the few who haven't heard about his father's marriage last Thursday in Las Vegas, Nev.

Bing was at CBS radio by 10 a.m. yesterday and by 1 p.m. had recorded 11 songs for his radio show.

"Even Elvis Presley can't knock out 11 songs in three hours," said one of the sound engineers.

During a luncheon break, the crew broke out a few bottles of champagne and toasted Bing and his bride.

She was across the street at the time for wardrobe tests in "Gunman's Walk," an upcoming Western in which she will costar with Van Heflin.

Bing revealed that the marriage was far from a hasty decision on his part, even though he had broken up with Kathy almost a year ago. He started dating her again about 10 days before the wedding.

"But never during all that time had I ever given up thinking about marrying her," he said. "I just didn't know how to make the move."

Kathy conceded the wedding was somewhat surprising to her.

"You might say I was in a small state of shock," she said, "but it was such happy shock."

Crosby had these final words to say about his bride:

"She's a wonderful, wonderful girl. I couldn't be happier."

RED SECRETARY FLEES

BERLIN (UP)— The secretary of East Germany Deputy Premier Otto Nuschke has fled to West Berlin from the Soviet sector, it was reported today. The private intelligence organization "information bureau west" said the secretary, Irmgard Schurwanz, fled Oct. 13 after she was questioned on a trip she had made to West Berlin. Her predecessor as Nuschke's secretary, Edith Hermann, fled to the West last year.

Fossil footprints, relics of the pre-historic era when dinosaurs roamed the land, have been discovered at Gill, Mass.

Townsend Denies Romance With 'Miss Universe'

AREQUIPA, Peru (UP)— Former RAF Group Capt. Peter Townsend emphatically denied Monday all reports of "any amorous attraction" between himself and Miss Universe of 1957, 18-year-old Gladys Zender of Peru.

But Townsend, who was forced to give up a romance with Princess Margaret of Britain two years ago, delayed his scheduled departure from Peru to attend a cocktail-dance in honor of Miss Zender.

Townsend, who is on a round-the-world trip apparently to help him forget his unhappy romance, with Margaret, has planned to leave Chile Monday.

Rumors of a possible romance between the 46-year-old Briton and the raven-haired Peruvian beauty began after Townsend attended a birthday party for Miss Zender at her home in Lima 10 days ago.

Townsend kissed Miss Zender on the forehead, in accordance with local custom, and she taught him a Peruvian folk dance. They spent considerable time together, with Miss Zender practicing her English since Townsend does not speak Spanish.

West Speeds Plans For Top Level Parleys

Report Ike Near Certain To Meet NATO Council

WASHINGTON, Oct 26 (UP)—The Western Allies, united again by Russian threats, rushed plans today for a "summit" conference to modernize their alliance for the rocket era.

A White House announcement that President Eisenhower will attend the mid-December NATO council meeting in Paris is expected early next week.

The NATO standing committee first must meet and get approval of the 15 member nations for a top-level conference. Until that formality has been completed, the White House and State Department said, there will be no announcement.

Paul-Henri Spaak, NATO secretary general, told newsmen at Norfolk, Va., that he should be able to announce the summit meeting early next week.

Satellite Instrumental

Russia's launching of the earth satellite, he said, has "brought NATO nations closer together." He urged a halt in the reduction of armed forces pending the top-level conference.

Canadian Prime Minister John Diefenbaker did not wait for this, however. He said in Ottawa that he will attend the "gathering of NATO leaders at the highest level."

This statement, coming after the arrival there of British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, confirmed diplomatic reports that a summit meeting to reappraise the West's defense needs will be the next move in meeting Russia's new challenges.

The State Department and the foreign ministries of the other Atlantic allies already were considering ideas for a NATO "new look" which would emphasize pooling of rocket and nuclear know-how and weapons and inject fresh confidence into the free world.

Attendance of the chiefs of state would dramatize the revived spirit of Western unity in response to Soviet rocket-rattling.

American officials emphasized that the renewal of wartime An-

Four In Plane Survive Ordeal In Waterspout

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 26 (AP)—Four men who said the experience was like flying under the ocean told today of a terrifying flight through a waterspout.

Though they survived, some 300,000 fish and 35 monkeys they were carrying as cargo perished as they were tossed about the wildly pitching airplane.

Capt. Charles W. Roberson of Hialeah said the twin-engine C46 he was flying "must have hit a combination waterspout and tornado."

He said the cargo plane was en route from Colombia to Panama when it hit the waterspout over the Pacific on Thursday.

Turns Over 5 Times

"The plane turned over at least five times and one of the engines went out," he said.

"We would go straight up, then the plane would flop over on its back and fall. Once we were within 100 feet of the water. I'd say the whole thing lasted about 15 minutes.

"We were flying in light rain at about 8,500 feet and I don't know exactly what happened. None of the controls would work. We just went up and down and there was nothing I could do."

Roberson said a window was opened at one point and a solid wall of water flooded the cockpit.

"It wasn't rain," said the pilot. "It was just like being under the ocean."

Others aboard were 2nd Capt. Richard F. Tacy, Jack Roberts of Roberts Fish Farm and crew member Arthur A. Tadwell, all of Miami.

Four Persons Die In Texas Collision

TAYLOR, Tex., Oct. 26 (UP)—Four persons from Thrall, Tex., were killed in a headon collision two miles east of Taylor on U.S. 79 today.

The dead were identified as Mrs. Virginia Gomez, 60, and her two daughters, Ciprinita, 32, and Eva, 24, and Carlos Vasquez, 28, the driver of the other car.

Three were killed immediately while Eva, the driver of the Gomez car, died two hours later in Johns hospital in Taylor. According to witnesses, the Vasquez car was passing another vehicle when the collision occurred.

AFTER THREE WEEKS

Sputnik's Radio Dead, Reds Say

MOSCOW, Oct. 26 (UP)—The radio voice of the Soviet satellite went dead today.

A Soviet Tass news agency announcement said "The satellite's radio station, having used up its reserve of power" in three weeks of steady signals has "stopped working."

Now, the 184-pound metal sphere hurtling around the world on its orbit can be tracked only by radar or visual observation.

The brief Tass announcement urged added efforts by "moon-watchers" around the world to keep track of Sputnik.

"In these circumstances," it said, "optical observations will become very important as they will be the main means of measuring the elements of the orbit of the satellite..."

Soviet scientists had warned two weeks ago that the satellite launched Oct. 4 would lose its voice as its batteries lost their power.

Batteries Heavy

A later Tass report said "The satellite's transmission set has run out of electricity and ceased emitting signals."

Authorities said much of the relatively heavy weight of Sputnik was taken up by the batteries.

Sputnik gave the first indication of radio failure Friday night. The steady "beep beep" signal which heralded its appearance over various areas of the world suddenly dimmed.

(In London, the British Broadcasting Corp. reported Friday night that the signal had become "very weak." Only the most powerful receivers could pick it up. At one point, there was no sound. Then a weak signal resumed.)

Man thus lost his only actual contact with outer space.

Sputnik now will travel in silence on its circular course at speeds in the 18,000 m.p.h. range, sailing on an elliptical track that ranges anywhere from 126 to 570 miles above the earth.

Tass said that at 5 p.m. Moscow time (9 a.m. C.S.T.), Sputnik, in its 22nd day of flight, had made 326 revolutions around the earth. It apparently has speeded up slightly. It now takes 95.31 minutes for each revolution compared

He is member of the Police Jury in Bossier and, of course, will have to relinquish this place. W. C. Horton is the kind of men that the cities of Monroe and West Monroe want. He will undoubtedly prove one who will take active interest in business affairs here and is calculated to prove a highly successful man in his life.

All kinds of success to Mr. Horton. He is the sort of man we need. Among the groups with which he is now affiliated are the Masons, Shrine and Methodist Church. All these will be pleased to accept a transfer of his connections from Bossier to Monroe.

Regret

It is with sincere regret that we learn that Bob Ed Tucker is to leave his job so long filled and with complete success as assistant secretary-treasurer and tax collector of the city of Monroe. He will end his public services November 1, after 39 years of service to the city, he is to take it easy. However, he declares he expects to be occupied and agrees to help out at the city hall should extra help be needed.

GRADE-A CHILLERS

Grid Titans Have Many Close Calls

By ED WILKS
(The Associated Press)

Grandma may like to call it perspiration, but the old gal is wrong this time—that was plain old sweat that major powers such as Oklahoma, Iowa, Notre Dame, Michigan State and Army wiped off their brows after another round of college football yesterday.

Oklahoma, the nation's No. 1 team, had to rush from behind on a last period 8-yard run by Clendon Thomas and a conversion by Carl Dodd before gaining its 45th consecutive victory with a 14-13 decision over Colorado.

Second-ranked Texas A&M had it relatively easy, running its winning streak to 16 with a 14-0 job on Baylor. But the rest were grade-A chillers like the Oklahoma game.

Iowa, No. 3, struggled through mud and snow to stay unbeaten with a 6-0 victory over winless Northwestern And Notre Dame, caught roughing it, finally decked Pittsburgh 13-7, rolling from behind on a 74-yard scoring pass from sophomore quarterback George Izo. Starting quarterback Bob Williams was one of three players booted for fighting as the Irish remained unbeaten.

Michigan State, chopped down last week by Purdue, also had to sweep from behind, defeating Illinois 19-14. Army, expected to march over Virginia, had to hustle back before winning 20-12.

Three of the top 10 in this week's Associated Press poll didn't make it, although fourth-ranked and unbeaten Duke escaped with a 14-14 tie against 11th ranked North Carolina State. But Mississippi was socked for its first defeat, 12-

Solons Open Agency Study Next Tuesday

By W.B. RAGSDALE JR.

BATON ROUGE, Oct. 26 (AP)—A legislative committee to study overlapping state agencies meets Tuesday with levee boards, tabbed outmoded by Gov. Earl Long, likely to get top attention.

House Speaker Robert Angelle, chairman of the Legislative Council Committee, admitted, "somebody may bring up the subject of levee boards," but refused to elaborate.

However, administration sources indicated Angelle discussed the possibility of replacing the levee boards with the State Department of Public Works in a conference with the governor over scope of the committee's work.

Other sources indicated the department already is studying the subject. Public Works already provides technical advice to the levee districts.

Three Reshuffled

Long has reshuffled three levee boards in recent weeks and commented two weeks ago he felt they were outmoded and could be replaced, to a large extent, by the Public Works Department.

Last Tuesday, he said that where the levee boards have struck oil "it's a pity it can't be spent to help the state."

There are some 20 levee districts throughout the state, charged with supervising levee work and holding power to levy property taxes within their districts for levee repairs.

However, the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers does most levee work, while levee board revenues in a number of cases have soared with the discovery of oil.

This is particularly true in Plaquemines Parish, where Long feuds with Dist. Atty. Leander Perez. The Plaquemines political boss has unitized several levee districts with the parish police jury and controls considerable oil royalties.

Located within the parish are Buras Back Levee District, Chalmette Back Levee District and Plaquemines Parish East Bank Levee District.

Long Battle

Long and Perez have fought for control of these levee districts since the 1956 Legislature. The governor's advisors recently told him they doubt he has authority to remove members of the Chalmette Back Levee District.

With his power of appointment and removal, Long replaced two of the three members of the Lake Borgne Levee Board, fired four of five members of the Orleans Levee Board and fired the president and accepted resignation of another member of the Pontchartrain Levee Board

Ousted President Louis J. Roussel said he was bounced because the Orleans Levee Board refused to turn over the site of the Naval

Urges Troop Shift To New York City

DOTHAN, Ala., Oct. 26 (AP)—Alabama Lt. Gov. Guy Hardwick today suggested that President Eisenhower move federal troops from Arkansas to New York City, where he said law and order has broken down.

Referring to the gang murder of Albert Anastasia, Hardwick telegraphed, "It is believed that mob rule prevails in New York and gang murderers are on the loose. Obviously local law enforcement unable to cope with situation."

"Respectfully suggest that you withdraw the troops and pull out the bayonets from State of Arkansas and the South and move them forthwith to the State of New York where there is a real, not imaginary, job to do," he wired Eisenhower.

Hardwick has been among the severest critics of Eisenhower's use of federal troops at Little Rock to enforce a Federal Court school integration order.

Injuries Fatal To Woman In Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 26 (AP)—The Orleans Parish coroner's office said 80-year-old Mrs. Marie E. Hazeau of New Orleans died in a hospital today, apparently of injuries received when a gas oven exploded in her home yesterday.

TO CHICAGO

Anastasia Death Weapon Traced

NEW YORK, Oct. 26 (UP)—Police traced a gun used in the gangland slaying of Albert Anastasia to Chicago today. The discovery hinted that the killers were imported from Al Capone's old battleground to commit murder for hire.

One of the two guns discarded after the 55-year-old Lord High Executioner of Murder, Inc., was shot down in a barber's chair was traced to Chicago. It was a .38-caliber Colt sold in August, 1934.

This led police to the suspicion that Anastasia's cool killers were brought here to do the job and then get out of town as fast as possible.

Police worked around the clock to solve the city's most sensational slaying since Serge Rubinstein was strangled in his Fifth Avenue mansion nearly three years ago. Rubinstein's slayer has not been found.

More than 60 persons, many of them drawn from a list of "who's who" in hoodlumism, were questioned Friday night and today, in an effort to get just one solid clue to Friday's killing.

Underworld Czar Frank Costello, who narrowly escaped death from a would-be assassin's bullet last spring, was at the top of the list. But Costello apparently is lying low. Police had not found him more than 24 hours after Anastasia was killed with five of 10 shots fired by the two silent gunmen in the barber shop of the Hotel Park-Sheraton, near New York's Central Park.

A police alarm was sent out for the pair who killed the mobster without saying a word. One was described as about 40, 5 feet, 8 inches tall, weighing 180 pounds and apparently Italian, with a sallow complexion. The other was about 30, 5 feet, 5 inches tall, 150 pounds, apparently Italian with a light complexion and a thin moustache. Both wore dark glasses and fedora hats.

Hours of marathon questioning sessions still left police right where they started on the two questions in the Anastasia case: Who killed Anastasia and why?

There was one theory that he was wiped out to avenge the attempt on Costello's life, which was bungled by a gunman who only creased his scalp.

Another theory was that Anastasia was murdered to stop his efforts to muscle in on racketeer Johnny Dio's garment industry domain.

A third theory was that Anastasia had been feuding with policy racketeer Vito Genovese and may have connected with the attempt on Costello's life.

State Realtors Close Annual Meeting Here

The 1957 convention of Louisiana Realtors here was climaxed yesterday with sessions which included an address by John C. Williamson, secretary counsel of the realtors' Washington committee of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, and discussions pertaining to the advertising phase of the real estate business.

The convention opened Thursday at the Virginia Hotel and brought approximately 300 delegates to Monroe from all parts of the state, in addition to regional and national dignitaries.

Friday night's program included the election of officers for the coming year, with Omer F. Kuebel of New Orleans, outgoing president, presenting the executive gavel to Frank J. Zuzak of Shreveport who will serve in the organization's top post for the next 12 months. Named vice-president was J. Beverly Brignac of Lafayette, while Claude J. Pumilia of New Orleans was elected secretary.

Jules Reinauer of Lake Charles is the new treasurer.

Money Is Problem

In his address to the delegates yesterday morning, Williamson declared that the problem of the residential real estate industry today is one of mortgage money in

Saud Withdraws Mediation Offer In Middle East

DAMASCUS, Oct. 26 (UP)—King Saud of Saudi Arabia has withdrawn his offer to mediate the Syrian-Turkish crisis, a Syrian government official said today.

The offer was doomed in the first place because Syria had rejected it on grounds the "urgent threat" by Turkey should be taken up immediately by the United Nations in New York.

The Syrian Director General of Information official said King Saud sent a "verbal message" to Damascus withdrawing his mediation offer.

Saud also has informed his representative at the U.N. of the decision, the Syrian official said.

The information official quoted Syrian Prime Minister Sabri Assali in issuing his statement. He added that Saud's message was addressed to Syrian President Shukri El Kuwatly.

Turks Accepted

Although Turkey accepted Saud's offer, President Kuwatly was reported to have twice asked the Arab monarch to cancel it.

When the offer was first made early this week, there was a flurry of diplomatic maneuvering at Damascus, Istanbul and the U.N.

Syria first accepted, then rejected, then accepted via its

3 Teenagers Get Life For Murder

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 26 (AP)—A criminal court jury today convicted three teen-agers of murder in the death of a retired police officer.

Found guilty without capital punishment were Lloyd Cook, 19, Mohamad Ally, 18, and Reynard Brustie, 16, all New Orleans Negroes.

The conviction carries an automatic sentence of life imprisonment.

Retired Sgt. Paul Paretti was stabbed and shot to death last February when he tried to aid an elderly neighbor whom a band of Negroes allegedly plotted to rob.

MARSHAL ZHUKOV

Malinovsky Is Named To Succeed Him

LONDON, Oct. 26 (AP)—Marshal Georgi Zhukov "has been relieved" of his post as Soviet defense minister, Radio Moscow announced tonight. The brief announcement gave no hint whether the Soviet World War II hero was being demoted or moved up to a position of greater power.

Marshal Rodion Y. Malinovsky, who shared with Zhukov in engineering some of the Soviet war victories, was named to the defense post. He previously has been Far East commander and commander of Soviet ground forces.

Zhukov is 61; Malinovsky 59. Zhukov once was banished from Moscow to the Southern command at Odessa by Josef Stalin, who apparently was jealous of his popularity. In the last four years he has been gaining steadily in power and position in the Soviet hierarchy.

May Be Top Power

There has been a question whether Nikita Khrushchev himself was not beholden to Zhukov for his position as first secretary of the Soviet Communist party and leading figure of power.

Zhukov, as leader of the army, was reported to have thrown his support to Khrushchev in the crucial June showdown in the Communist party Central Committee which resulted in the downfall of former Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov, former Premier Georgi Malenkov and Lazar Kaganovich.

The dramatic exit of Zhukov from the defense ministry could mean either that he has run afoul of Khrushchev in another of the struggles for power in the Kremlin or is ticketed for yet another step higher, possibly to premier.

There has been much speculation recently that the present premier, Nikolai Bulganin, frequent traveling companion of Khrushchev on goodwill visits to such places as India, southeast Asia and Britain, might be on the way out.

Bulganin was replaced on the traveling team by A. I. Mikoyan,

Red Chinese Head Planning Moscow Visit

LONDON, Oct. 26 (AP)—Red China announced today that Mao Tze-tung is going to Moscow next month, and Western diplomats took it as evidence that Russia is reviving the Cominform as a worldwide clearing house for Communist propaganda and agitation.

Informed sources said rebirth of the Cominform—dissolved in 1956 after being weakened by the defection of President Tito of Yugoslavia and the wavering of other East European leaders—might be announced during Mao's visit.

It would provide a showpiece of renewed Communist unity for the Kremlin's massive celebration of the 40th anniversary of the Red Revolution Nov. 7.

Working For Months

Diplomatic informants say Communist party chief Nikita Khrushchev has been working for months to patch up the Cominform — or some newer version of it—and prepare foreign Communist parties for a new and harsher phase of the cold war.

Persistent but unconfirmed reports say Tito and Poland's Communist chief, Wladyslaw Gomulka, also will be on hand for the Cominform announcement.

Although generally favorable toward the Khrushchev regime, Mao last year was reported to have criticized the repression of Hungary and also made an ideologically explosive speech on the existence of different roads to socialism. The announcement that he would make the Moscow visit, postponed several times in the past, was taken as an indication that he has composed any differences with the Kremlin and is ready to enter a new, and possibly more liberal, Cominform agreement.

Much Speculation

There has been much speculation — since the Russians announced firing of an intercontinental ballistics missile (ICBM) and launched Sputnik — that there would be some spectacular an-

Cloudy And Chilly Outlook For Today

Partly cloudy and continued cold is the outlook for the Twin Cities area today, with overcast skies and warmer looming for tomorrow. A similar forecast was issued last night for areas of Arkansas over the weekend.

The high recorded here yesterday was a chilly 52, with low at 42.

COSTLY PROGRAM

$60 Million Fired In Missile Testing

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26 (AP)—The military has fired more than 60-million-dollars worth of intermediate range ballistic missiles (IRBM) in tests during the past year, about 12 million dollars within the past week.

That figure—for one type of weapons only—gives only a hint of the cost of the huge test program for missiles of all kinds.

These unofficial estimates — based on an average cost of about six million dollars for each test firing of a ballistic missile—do not include scores of millions more in developmental firings of other missiles.

The latter range from huge intercontinental ballistic missiles (ICBM) through shorter range antiaircraft and bombardment guided missiles to numerous tests of components for missile systems and of "research vehicles" for acquiring basic data in weapon design.

Also outside the estimate is the substantial cost of research done outside big firing test centers like those at Cape Canaveral, Fla., White Sands, N. M., and at other Navy and Air Force ranges.

Congress, some members of which have been audibly grumbling about evidence of Russian spurts ahead of the United States in missile as well as satellite development, set out to find "what has been done with the millions of dollars."

Chairman Mahon (D-Tex) of a House Appropriations subcommittee said his group will conduct a full-scale investigation starting Nov. 4 to pave the way for establishing in the missile-satellite

Infant Perishes As Fire Destroys Delhi Residence

DELHI (Special) — A three-month-old Negro boy was burned to death when the home of his parents on the outskirts of town was destroyed by flames about 4:45 p.m. yesterday.

The infant, the son of Ola Mae and Robert Henderson, had been left on the bed by his grandmother while she went to look for his five-year-old brother who was playing in the neighborhood, according to police reports. Police identified the grandmother as Ida Wilmore.

The parents were reported working in Bastrop at the time of the accident. Police said they were told that the grandmother had been gone from the residence for about 10 minutes when the fire was discovered by neighbors. A rescue effort by police was in vain.

Officers theorized that sparks from a wood-burning stove ignited the ceiling of the frame dwelling located on Highway 80 at the east edge of town. The house was listed as a complete loss.
